Service Learning In Technical And Professional Communication:

Service-learning in Technical and Professional Communication Melody A. Bowdon,J. Blake Scott,2003 Grounded in the practices of ethical deliberation and civic action this text creates a resource for helping technical and professional communication students and teachers implement service learning projects in campus and larger communities Designed for a wide ranging audience Service Learning in Technical and Professional Communication address both advanced and beginning students and both veteran service learning teachers and those trying it for the first time The text begins with three chapters that define and explain the authors approach to service learning and develop a rhetorical toolbox for implementing this approach The remainder of the book is loosely organized around the process of developing executing and evaluating service learning projects These process chapters teach rhetorical strategies ethical concerns genre conventions and style principles in an integrated contextualized way Discussions of rhetoric and ethics are supplemented with heuristics for analyzing the larger cultural effects of service learning projects Outlines and Highlights for Service-Learning in Technical and Professional Communication by Bowdon and Scott Cram101 Textbook Reviews,2011-07 Never HIGHLIGHT a Book Again Virtually all of the testable terms concepts persons places and events from the textbook are included Cram101 Just the FACTS101 studyguides give all of the outlines highlights notes and quizzes for your textbook with optional online comprehensive practice tests Only Cram101 is Textbook Specific Accompanys 9780205335602 Service-Learning to Advance Access & Success Travis T. York,Alan S. Tinkler,Barri E. Tinkler,2018-11-28 This volume explores how service learning can advance access and success by bridging institutional and community capacity It includes 12 chapters on leveraging partnerships building institutional capacity and studying the relationship between service learning pedagogy and student success especially in teacher preparation programs Professional Development in Online Teaching and Learning in Technical Communication Beth L. Hewett,Tiffany Bourelle,2020-05-18 Technical communication instructors need professional development opportunities that will aid them in creating their online courses in developing curricula and in teaching in what may be a new environment Although instructors can turn to instructional design teams for assistance in using Learning Management System and its functions they specifically need their own first hand immersive learning within their pedagogical training In other words teachers need to learn in an online context like the environment that their students will use such direct training helps instructors to facilitate student learning in a technologically distributed classroom Beyond learning technological skills to facilitate a course these teachers need to learn to use the technology effectively to keep students on track and to teach them skills and material This collection which includes three contributions from 2007 and 10 from 2017 focuses on the types of professional development instructors need to be successful in the online technical communication classroom Formed as a 10 year retrospective of the field and its advances in online education professional development the book offers instructors theoretical and practical suggestions for creating and teaching successful online courses and managing entire online technical communication programs This book was originally published as a special issue of Technical Communication Quarterly TCQ Service-Learning and Writing: Paving the Way for Literacy(ies) through Community Engagement Isabel Baca,2012-11-20 Service learning and Writing Paving the Way for Literacy ies through Community Engagement discusses service learning as a teaching and learning method and its integration with writing The various authors from different disciplines and institutions present service learning as a means of having students practice writing in real world settings and they show how relationship building and partnerships between higher education and diverse communities produce benefits for all involved the students faculty administrators and the communities themselves This volume demonstrates how writing instruction and or writing practice can complement community engagement and outreach at local national and international contexts Through different cross cultural contexts and academic disciplines the various authors explore reflection assessment internalization diversity and multiple literacies and their importance when integrating service learning in higher education and community literacy Resources in Technical Communication Cynthia Selfe,2017-03-02 Provides the instructors of introductory technical communication courses with a set of resources for their classrooms Innovative Approaches to Teaching Technical Communication Tracy Bridgeford,Karla Saari Kitalong,Dickie Selfe,2004 Innovative Approaches to Teaching Technical Communication offers a variety of activities projects and approaches to energize pedagogy in technical communication and to provide a constructive critique of current practice A practical collection the approaches recommended here are readily adaptable to a range of technological and institutional contexts as well as being theoretically grounded and pedagogically sound Throughout the collection its editors and contributors demonstrate the importance of critically engaging students through creative and innovative pedagogies Programs in technical writing technical communication and or professional communication have recently grown in enrollment as the demand among employers for formally prepared technical writers and editors has grown In response scholarly treatments of the subject and the teaching of technical writing are also burgeoning and the body of research and theory being published in this field is many times larger and more accessible than it was even a decade ago Although many theoretical and disciplinary perspectives can potentially inform technical communication teaching administration and curriculum development the actual influences on the field s canonical texts have traditionally come from a rather limited range of disciplines Innovative Approaches to Teaching Technical Communication brings together a wide range of scholars teachers to expand the existing canon The editors and authors in this volume suggest that for various reasons the field has not been as flexible or open to innovation as it needs to be Given pervasive technological and workplace changes and changing cultural attitudes they say new and more dynamic pedagogies in technical communication are warranted and they are addressing this collection to that need Contributing authors include a number of scholars with a strong record of work in composition technical writing professional communication and allied areas e g Selfe Wahlstrom

Kalmbach Duin Hansen who deliver a variety of approaches that are grounded in current theory and represent pedagogical creativity and innovation Academy-Industry Relationships and Partnerships Tracy Bridgeford,Kirk St. Amant,2017-07-05 In the field of technical communication academics and industry practitioners alike regularly encounter the same question What exactly is it you do Their responses often reveal a fundamental difference of perspective on what the field is and how it operates For example academics might discuss ideas in terms of rhetorical theory while practitioners might explain concepts through more practical approaches involving best business practices And such differences can have important implications for how the field as a whole moves forward over time This collection explores ideas related to forging effective academia industry relationships and partnerships so members of the field can begin a dialogue designed to foster communication and collaboration among academics and industry practitioners in technical communication To address the various factors that can affect such interactions the contributions in this collection represent a broad range of approaches that technical communicators can use to establish effective academy industry partnerships and relationships in relation to an area of central interest to both education The 11 chapters thus present different perspectives on and ideas for achieving this goal In so doing the contributors discuss programmatic concerns workplace contexts outreach programs and research and writing The result is a text that examines different general contexts in which academia industry relationships and partnerships can be established and maintained It also provides readers with a reference for exploring such interactions Focus on Writing Laurie McMillan,2018-10-30 This first year composition rhetoric reader uses a Writing about Writing WAW approach and a conversational style to help students engage in threshold concepts and transfer what they know about writing to new situations Each chapter asks a key question such as Why Write or What Is the Rhetorical Situation and Why Should I Care about It Preliminary answers to the chapter question are provided in accessible prose and these initial ideas are supplemented with a selection of three or four readings and a list of recommended online texts Prompts for informal and formal writing projects keep the focus on writing and help students apply writing studies scholarship to their own lives in meaningful ways A companion website includes recommended WAW resources assignment supports and links to additional readings sites broadviewpress com focusonwriting THE VISUAL AND PERFORMING ARTS IN THE TECHNICAL COMMUNICATION CLASSROOM ,2017 Abstract This report details a class taught that was an exploration into the value of STEAM or science technology engineering arts and mathematics within the confines of Technical Communication as it applies to the business and industry of theatre It was an experiment in service learning as it could be tied into the Arts via differing technai as described by John Wild in Plato s Theory of Texnh a Phenomenological Interpretation demonstrating a necessity for Arts as they pertain to STEM centric universities This report discusses a section of Technical and Professional Communication taught at Michigan technological University that consisted of twenty five students investigating theatre as an industry and business and applying the theory and practice of Technical Communication specifically in the context of Kelli

Cargile Cook s Layered Literacies to bridge STEM the humanities and the Arts The theatre with which students collaborated worked closely with faculty and staff within various areas of that department The students in the Technical Communication classroom were predominantly STEM majors This offered a unique opportunity to demonstrate the potential for the Arts to cross academic disciplines at a STEM focused university and emphasize the importance of interdisciplinarity through a better community literacy Civic Engagement and Technical Communication James M. Dubinsky,J. Harrison Carpenter,2023-04-14 This special issue on civic engagement and technical communication focuses on the ways educators can help students become actively engaged members of society particularly a rhetorical democracy The first essay examines the concept of community as a locus for civic engagement and question some of the definitions of community seen embedded in current pedagogical practices The next article seeks to shape understanding of practice The tension of developing students civic awareness and engagement is the topic of the third paper The fourth article helps students gain skills and organization awareness and improves the perceived relevance of the work The final two essays approach the issue of civic engagement from slightly different angles one examining the role of teacher as both rhetor and instructor and the other looking to the past for possible solutions for the future By continuing the conversation about the relationship between technical communication and the public good and focusing specifically on pedagogical strategies and their theoretical and historical underpinnings the authors in this special issue clarify roles that technical communication and technical communicators play in civil society as well as ways curricula can be shaped to prepare students to fill those roles Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1991 The Art and Strategy of Service-learning Presentations Rick Isaacson,Jeff Saperstein,2005 This resourceful handbook provides guidelines for connecting service learning work with classroom concepts as well as advice for working effectively with agencies and organizations Its model forms and sample speeches will help you throughout the course Assessment in Technical and Professional Communication Margaret Hundleby,Jo Allen,2017-07-05 A collection of essays that focuses on both how and why assessment serves as a key element in the teaching and practice of technical and professional communication It offers teachers students scholars and practitioners evidence of the increasingly valuable role of assessment in the field as it supports and enriches our thinking and practice Current Index to Journals in Education ,2001 Service Learning in the Middle School Carl I.
