Religious Symbolism And Its Universal Character:

The Principle of Analogy in Protestant and Catholic Theology Battista Mondin, 2013-06-29 In recent years there has been a remarkable revival of interest in the doctrine of analogy and many important studies on this doctrine have appeared in the form of articles and books Today many of the greatest living philosophers and theologians consider some sort of analogy to be an indispensable tool for any fruitful research in metaphysics and theology In this atmosphere we are sure that a study of the history of the principle of analogy in Protestant and Catholic theology is welcome This is one of the reasons for the present undertaking A second reason for this study is to seek to divert the ecumenical dialogue from secondary questions and to direct it to an area where it is necessary to agree in order to be one The title of our work is somewhat misleading it may lead one to believe that it deals with all Catholic and Protestant theologians of past and present Actually it does not It deals only with some of the major figures of Catholic and Protestant theology It concentrates especially on Aquinas analogy of intrinsic attribution on Barth's analogy of faith and on Tillich's symbolic analogy It attempts to compare and evaluate these three theological methods from the standpoint of determining their adequacy to interpret the God-creature relation and to justify the use of theological language

95 Theses on Humanism Ignace Demaerel, 2018-08-02 Since the rise and growth of secularization the place of God and religion is becoming increasingly problematic in our Western culture But what is the alternative to its Christian heritage Humanism puts man at the center of everything but can you believe in man just as much as you can believe in God Is this secular worldview really rational based on science consistent and durable And above all does our society become more humane because of it Can you simply obliterate God from our culture and values without these collapsing like a pudding Secular humanism has always been extremely critical of the church and in itself that is allowed but what if we judge and measure it with the same criteria
