No Condition Is Permanent:

No Condition Is Permanent Sara S. Berry, 1993-09-15 No condition is permanent a popular West African slogan expresses Sara S Berry's theme the obstacles to African agrarian development never stay the same Her book explores the complex way African economy and society are tied to issues of land and labor offering a comparative study of agrarian change in four rural economies in sub-Saharan Africa including two that experienced long periods of expanding peasant production for export southern Ghana and southwestern Nigeria a settler economy central Kenya and a rural labor reserve northeastern Zambia The resources available to African farmers have changed dramatically over the course of the twentieth century Berry asserts that the ways resources are acquired and used are shaped not only by the incorporation of a rural area into colonial later national and global political economies but also by conflicts over culture power and property within and beyond rural communities By tracing the various debates over rights to resources and their effects on agricultural production and farmers uses of income Berry presents agrarian change as a series of on going processes rather than a set of discrete successes and failures No Condition Is Permanent enriches the discussion of agrarian development by showing how multidisciplinary studies of local agrarian history can constructively contribute to development policy The book is a contribution both to African agrarian history and to debates over the role of agriculture in Africa's recent economic crises
