No Limits Just Edges:

No limits, just edges, 2005 Jackson Pollock Jackson Pollock, 2005 While legendary artist Jackson Pollock has been comprehensively investigated in recent shows a focused exhibition examining his drawings has not been organized since 1980 No Limits Just Edges Jackson Pollock Paintings on Paper features a compelling group of 75 artworks drawn from the holdings of institutions and private collections worldwide Curated by Susan Davidson this long awaited exhibition to be held at the Deutsche Guggenheim Berlin Guggenheim Bilbao and the Peggy Guggenheim Collection in Venice considers the artist's works on paper as an essential component in his signature transformation of the traditional figurative line into a non-figurative graphic expression This catalogue of the exhibition begins chronologically with Pollock's early sketchbook studies based on old master paintings by Michelangelo and El Greco as well as those influenced by his contemporaries mainly the Mexican muralists Jose Clemente Orozco and David Alfaro Siqueiros These early works reveal a figurative treatment that Pollock ultimately rejected as he moved at first toward pieces that mirrored his advancements in painting and eventually by late 1947 to abstract compositions Throughout his career Pollock experimented with different media on paper alternating the same themes on watercolor and lithography and later adding gouache to engravings to provide interesting variations In the last years of his life Pollock's fascination with different types of paper led him to special handmade sheets that allowed the paint to permeate below the main layer thus achieving fortuitous variations of his well known poured painting technique This fully illustrated catalogue which shows the full range of Pollock's works on paper includes a reassessment of his skills as a draftsman by David Anfam a noted scholar of Abstract Expressionism Susan Davidson contributes a text that focuses on Pollock's stylistic development and the reception of his works on paper during his lifetime A technical analysis of Pollock's working method is provided by Margaret Hoben Ellis Critical Communities and Aesthetic Practices Francis Halsall, Julia Jansen, Sinéad Murphy, 2011-11-17 Critical Communities and Aesthetic Practices brings together eminent international philosophers to discuss the interdependence of critical communities and aesthetic practices Their contributions share a hermeneutical commitment to dialogue both as a model for critique and as a generator of community Two conclusions emerge The first is that one's relationships with others will always be central in determining the social political and artistic forms that philosophical self reflection will take The second is that our practices of aesthetic judgment are bound up with our efforts as philosophers to adapt ourselves and our objects of interest to the inescapably historical and indeterminate conditions of experience The papers collected here address the issue that critical communities and aesthetic practices are never politically neutral and can never be abstracted from their particular contexts It is for this reason that the contributors investigate the politics not of laws parties or state constitutions but of open indefinably critical communities such as audiences peers and friends Critical Communities and Aesthetic Practices is distinctive in providing a current selection of prominent positions written for this volume Together these comprise a pluralist un-homogenized collection that brings into focus contemporary debates on critical and aesthetic practices The World on Edge Edward S. Casey, 2017-07-12 From one of continental philosophy's most distinctive voices comes a creative contribution to spatial studies environmental philosophy and phenomenology Edward S Casey identifies how important edges are to us not only in terms of how we perceive our world but in our cognitive artistic and sociopolitical attentions to it We live in a world that is constantly on edge yet edges as such are rarely explored Casey systematically describes the major and minor edges that configure the human and other than human realms including our everyday experience He also explores edges in high stakes situations such as those that emerge in natural disasters moments of political and economic upheaval and encroaching climate change Casey's work enables a more lucid understanding of the edge world that is a necessary part of living in a shared global environment
