Rich Forests Poor People Resource Control And Resistance In Java:

Rich Forests, Poor People Nancy Lee Peluso, 2023-09-01 Millions of Javanese peasants live alongside state controlled forest lands in one of the world's most densely populated agricultural regions. Because their legal access and customary rights to the forest have been severely limited, these peasants have been pushed toward illegal use of forest resources. Rich Forests Poor People untangles the complex of peasant and state politics that has developed in Java over three centuries. Drawing on historical materials and intensive field research including two contemporary case studies, Peluso presents the story of the forest and its people. Without major changes in forest policy, Peluso contends, the situation is portentous. Economic, social, and political costs to the government will increase. Development efforts will be stymied and forest destruction will continue. Mindful that a dramatic shift is unlikely, Peluso suggests how tension between foresters and villagers can be alleviated while giving peasants a greater stake in local forest management. Millions of Javanese peasants live alongside state controlled forest lands in one of the world's most densely populated agricultural regions. Because their legal access and customary rights to the forest have been severely limited, these peasants have been

The Political Ecology of Forestry in Burma, 1824-1994 Raymond L. Bryant, 1997-08-01 The author examines how the Burmese state has sought to control the country's forest activities and the ways in which groups relying on the forest for their livelihood—loggers, transnational corporations, cultivators, peasants—have fought such control.

Cutting Across the Lands Eveline Ferretti, 2018-05-31 An annotated bibliography focused on Borneo and the Southern Philippines. With over 1,000 citations, this reference work identifies patterns of forestland transformation common to the areas under consideration. A subject index is included.

Nature and Nation Jeyamalar Kathirithamby-Wells, 2005-10-31 Nature and Nation explores the relations between people and forests in Peninsular Malaysia, where the planet's richest terrestrial ecosystem met head-on with the fastest pace of economic transformation experienced in the tropical world. It engages the interplay of history, culture, science, economics, and politics to provide a holistic interpretation of the continuing relevance of forests to state and society in the moist tropics. Malaysia has long been singled out for emulation by developing nations, an accolade contradicted in recent years by concerns over its capital rather than poverty-driven forest depletion. The Malaysian case supports the call for re-appraisal of entrenched prescriptions for development that go beyond material needs. Book cover
