Edumetrics Nadir Altinok, Claude Diebolt, 2026-01-01 This book introduces edumetrics a rigorous interdisciplinary framework for measuring learning outcomes over time and across space Based on Lord Kelvin s maxim that to measure is to know edumetrics redefines education as an empirical science that integrates economics psychology and social science to quantify cognitive and non cognitive competencies By harmonizing data from over 120 countries spanning half a century the book transforms fragmented indicators into coherent measures of learning quality and equity It critiques the limitations of traditional human capital theory and challenges the use of years of schooling as a proxy for skill Through econometric analysis historical inquiry and global datasets including Learning Adjusted Years of Schooling it reveals that educational structures not just resources shape productivity adaptability and social cohesion At its core the book addresses the paradox of why rising investments in schooling have not yielded proportional gains in learning With its integration of theory data and historical perspective it serves as both a methodological blueprint and a call to rethink how we define measure and value learning in the twenty first century

Raw Data Is an Oxymoron Lisa Gitelman, 2013-01-25 Episodes in the history of data from early modern math problems to today s inescapable dataveillance that demonstrate the dependence of data on culture We live in the era of Big Data with storage and transmission capacity measured not just in terabytes but in petabytes where peta denotes a quadrillion or a thousand trillion Data collection is constant and even insidious with every click and every like stored somewhere for something This book reminds us that data is anything but raw that we shouldn't think of data as a natural resource but as a cultural one that needs to be generated protected and interpreted The book's essays describe eight episodes in the history of data from the predigital to the digital Together they address such issues as the ways that different kinds of data and different domains of inquiry are mutually defining how data are variously cooked in the processes of their collection and use and conflicts over what can or can't be reduced to data Contributors discuss the intellectual history of data as a concept describe early financial modeling and some unusual sources for astronomical data discover the prehistory of the database in newspaper clippings and index cards and consider contemporary dataveillance of our online habits as well as the complexity of scientific data curation
