The Design and Construction of Ships, Vol. 1 John Harvard Biles,2015-07-28 Excerpt from The Design and Construction of Ships Vol 1 Vol 1 Calculation and Strength This book is the written word of many years of lecturing in Glasgow University As these lectures have never been written as they were delivered and as new matter was necessarily added to the lectures as it became available the chapters of this book do not represent any one systematic series of lectures though there is little in the book but what has been given at some time to the students The process of writing such a book is very dissimilar to that of writing most books Much of it at first was collected from lecture notes by one or other of my assistants These collections were elaborated modified rewritten in parts and finally corrected in the form in which they now appear In the collecting and correcting process I was continually helped by my assistants and students but the bulk of the assistance was given me by Mr J G Johnstone B Sc to whom I am indebted for saving me a great deal of detail work in the collection of what I have given from time to time in my lectures Some of the calculations were made by students of the Naval Architecture Class This book cannot possibly lay any large claim to originality The greater part is necessarily the work of others who went before or who are now working for the advancement of the science of Naval Architecture Very little attempt has been made to acknowledge the sources of such help The subject is too wide to attempt to acknowledge all the sources even if one were qualified to do so But there are parts which are original work given for the first time in the lecture room though some has been already published mostly in the Transactions of the Institution of Naval Architects The subject is developing year by year and often so rapidly as to make it very difficult if not almost impossible to read all that is published on the subject There are further stores of knowledge which are never published and are only accessible to individuals associated with the shipbuilding establishments in which much expense is incurred in investigations and experiments for the advancement of knowledge of the subject About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works      Ship Construction and Calculations.
