FES/IPCR/CMR/052025-FaC0009

APPRECIATION FOR OUTSTANDING CONTRIBUTION TO FACULTY ENGAGEMENT

Winnie Ishaku

In recognition of over four years of dedicated service as a Faculty Member in the facilitation of Specialized Trainings and Exchange Programmes on 'Understanding and Monitoring Civil-Military Relations,' by the Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung (FES), the Institute for Peace and Conflict Resolution (IPCR), and the National Women's Platform on Security Sector Reform and Governance. This certificate acknowledges your unwavering commitment, professionalism, and enduring contribution to strengthening inclusive and accountable security sector governance in Nigeria.

This certificate also acknowledges your vital contribution to a training programme that advanced understanding of civil-military relations and human rights. Your expertise supported key focus areas including the role of civil society, protection of civilians, legal accountability frameworks, the functions of human rights officers, and democratic oversight. Your dedication has been instrumental in fostering a more just, inclusive, and accountable security governance framework in Nigeria.

Promising Practices for

Addressing the Underrepresentation of Women in Science, Engineering, and Medicine National Academies of Sciences,

Engineering, and Medicine, Policy and Global Affairs, Committee on Women in Science, Engineering, and Medicine, Committee on Increasing the Number of Women in Science, Technology, Engineering, Mathematics, and Medicine (STEMM), 2020-04-19

Careers in science engineering and medicine offer opportunities to advance knowledge contribute to the well being of communities and support the security prosperity and health of the United States But many women do not pursue or persist in these careers or advance to leadership positions not because they lack the talent or aspirations but because they face barriers including implicit and explicit bias sexual harassment unequal access to funding and resources pay inequity higher teaching and advising loads and fewer speaking invitations among others There are consequences from this underrepresentation of women for the nation as well a labor shortage in many science engineering and medical professions that cannot be filled unless institutions and organizations recruit from a broad and diverse talent pool lost opportunities for innovation and economic gain and lost talent as a result of discrimination unconscious bias and sexual harassment Promising

Practices for Addressing the Underrepresentation of Women in Science Engineering and Medicine reviews and synthesizes existing research on policies practices programs and other interventions for improving the recruitment retention and sustained advancement into leadership roles of women in these disciplines This report makes actionable recommendations to leverage change and drive swift coordinated improvements to the systems of education research and employment in order to improve both the representation and leadership of women

Using Quality Benchmarks for Assessing and Developing

Undergraduate Programs Dana S. Dunn, Maureen A. McCarthy, Suzanne C. Baker, Jane S. Halonen, 2010-12-21 Using

Quality Benchmarks for Assessing and Developing Undergraduate Programs Using Quality Benchmarks for Assessing and Developing Undergraduate Programs introduces selected performance criteria benchmarks to assist undergraduate programs in defining their educational goals and documenting their effectiveness The book explores the attributes of undergraduate programs by focusing on educationally related activities in eight domains program climate assessment accountability and accreditation issues student learning outcomes student development curriculum faculty characteristics program resources and administrative support Further it conceptualizes a continuum of performance for each attribute in each of the domains to characterize underdeveloped developing effective and distinguished achievement for undergraduate programs The goal of the book is to encourage individual departments at various types of institutions to evaluate what they currently do well while identifying areas for refinement or future growth When benchmarks reveal that a program is underdeveloped faculty and administrators can plan for how they can best direct subsequent efforts and resources to improve a program s performance and ability to serve students Emphasizing formative assessment over summative or punitive evaluation the benchmarks in this book are designed to improve program quality encourage more effective program reviews and help optimally functioning programs compete more successfully for resources Using performance benchmarks to identify areas of program strength can in turn be used to recruit and retain students seek funding via grants or alumni support and enhance the perceived rating of an institution

Facing Vexing Problems for Community College Leaders

Jon McNaughtan, Merrill Irving Jr., Terri L. Winfree, Greg Thomas, 2025-11-22 Written scholars and past community college presidents this book provides unique perspectives and tools for facing some of the most vexing problems for community college leaders Structured for both current and aspiring presidents the book introduces the challenge framework and is structured the same way including the process for collecting information for the challenge the approach to analyzing that information a glimpse into how to structure potential initiatives to address the challenge and a discussion on the follow up processes for each challenge By using the framework in this book to examine nine of the most significant challenges that college leaders face the work shows how to apply the framework to common challenges and wicked problems in higher education The nine main challenges addressed in this book are situated in current research focused on executive college leaders and supplemented by the lived experience of college presidents to create a blend of theory and practice that best informs and prepares college leaders The challenges focused on in this book include the executive leader search process strategic enrollment management board engagement talent management institutional politics institutional finances fundraising inclusive programming crisis management and personal health The challenges span the experience of being hired as a community college leader to the impact of leadership on one s personal life Taking this wholistic approach is critical because too much of the current research only focuses on the day to day work of presidents
