Passages To Power Legislative Recruitment In Advanced Democracies:

Passages to Power Pippa Norris, 1997-10-09 Recruitment to legislative office is one of the core functions of political systems yet we know little about how the process varies from one country to another Passages to Power provides a comparative account of legislative recruitment which applies a common analytical framework and new survey data to nineteen advanced democracies Legislative recruitment refers to the critical step as people move from lower levels of politics into parliamentary careers Who succeeds in becoming a politician Who fails And why Based on original research which adopts a new institutionalist perspective this 1997 book compares these issues in a wide range of countries This important study brings together an outstanding group of international scholars to look at recruitment around the world The countries examined in depth include Australia Canada Finland Germany Japan the Netherlands New Zealand the United Kingdom and the United States along with a comparison of all member states in the European Union The Oxford Handbook of Electoral Persuasion Elizabeth Suhay, Bernard Grofman, Alexander H. Trechsel, 2020 Electoral persuasion is central to democratic politics It includes strategic communication not only by candidates and parties but also by interest groups media and citizens This volume surveys the vast literature on this topic emphasizing contemporary research and topics and complementing deep coverage of U S politics with international perspectives Towards a regional political class? Klaus Stolz, 2013-07-19 Focussing on professional politicians Klaus Stolz investigates the interrelationship between political career patterns and political institutions in two of the most widely discussed cases of regionalism Catalonia and Scotland The study deals with two different yet closely related sets of questions Firstly how do professional politicians pursue their careers in the regional context And secondly how do they shape and reshape the political institutions in which they pursue these careers The monograph is based on extensive empirical research including a comprehensive data set on the careers of Catalan and Scottish parliamentarians systematic surveys of regional representatives as well as in depth interviews of a wide range of politicians and experts in both regions Exploring the effects of political professionalisation on regional democracy Stolz goes way beyond traditional studies of regionalism and decentralization while his focus on the regional career arena introduces a much needed territorial dimension to the study of political careers Rich original data innovative theoretical concepts and a strictly comparative approach are the basis for a study that considerably deepens and enhances our understanding of the tremendous political changes both Catalonia and Scotland are undergoing Thus the book is of interest to the still growing number of scholars concerned with devolution in the UK the Spanish autonomous communities as well as to those interested in regional politics and regionalisation in general Furthermore its theoretical focus makes it highly relevant for scholars working on political careers political professionalisation and democratic theory Democracy within Parties Reuven Y. Hazan, Gideon Rahat, 2010-07-01 Can too much participation harm democracy Democratic theory places great importance upon the conduct of elections but it is not often recognized that the electoral game takes place in two arenas not only between parties but also within them This pioneering book presents a new approach to understanding political parties It sheds light on the inner dynamics of party politics and offers the first comprehensive analysis of one of the most important processes any party undertakes its process of candidate selection Candidate selection methods are the mechanisms by which a party chooses its candidates for the general elections It may be the function that separates parties from other organizations For such an important function this field has certainly faced a dearth of serious investigation Hazan and Rahat the leading scholars on this topic conduct an in depth analysis of the consequences of different candidate selection methods on democracy This book is a culmination of almost two decades of research and defines the field of candidate selection Part I of the book delineates candidate selection methods based on four major dimensions candidacy the selectorate decentralization and voting versus appointment systems Part II analyses the political consequences of using different candidate selection methods according to four important aspects of democracy participation representation competition and responsiveness The book ends with a proposed candidate selection method that optimally balances all four of the democratic aspects concurrently and answers the question Is the most participatory candidate selection method necessarily the best one for democracy

Democratic Representation in Europe Maurizio Cotta, Heinrich Best, 2007-11-08

Democratic Representation in Europe Diversity Change and convergence explores representation as a core element of democracies in the modern era Over the past 150 years parliamentary representation has developed into a main link between polity and society and parliamentary representatives have come to form the nucleus of political elites The twenty authors of the 16 chapters follow a comparative and empirical approach by exploiting the unique longitudinal data base of the EURELITE project which has gathered standardized evidence about the structures of parliamentary representation in 11 European countries and their development over time in many countries over 160 years Following on from an earlier book by the same editors Parliamentary Representatives in Europe 1848-2000 which focused on trends in single European countries Democratic Representation in Europe pursues a trans national approach by comparing the mechanisms and modes of parliamentary recruitment and career formation between the main party families and various categories of the population in European societies Such cross national analyses which include a longitudinal account of female representation throughout modern European parliamentary history have not been attempted before The book concludes with longitudinal in depth analyses of cleavage representation in European parliamentary history and of the impact of the institutional factor on political elites transformations Democratic Representation in Europe contributes to a better understanding of relations between social and political change and of the importance of institutional factors in shaping the political elites of European democracies In so doing it can help substantiate theoretical debates in the social and political sciences on issues such as historical institutionalism and path dependency Do Political Campaigns Matter? David M. Farrell, Rüdiger Schmitt-Beck, 2003-09-02 This book in bringing together some of the leading international scholars on electoral behaviour and communication studies provides the first ever stock take of the state of this sub discipline The individual chapters present the most recent studies on campaign effects in North America Europe and Australasia As a whole the book provides a cross national assessment of the theme of political campaigns and their consequences Political Candidate Selection Jeanette Ashe, 2019-12-05 The secret garden of politics where some win and others lose their candidate selection bids and why some aspirant candidates are successful while others fail have been enduring puzzles within political science This book solves this puzzle by proposing and applying a universally applicable multistage approach to discover the relationship between selection rules selectors biases aspirants attributes and selection outcomes Rare party and survey data on winning and losing candidates and insider views on what it takes to win a selection contest at multiple selection stages are compared and used to reveal the inner workings of the secret garden With a primary focus on the British Labour party over several elections the findings challenge many long held assumptions about why some aspirant candidate types are successful over others and provides real world and controversial solutions to addressing women s and other marginalised groups descriptive underrepresentation As such it provides a much needed fresh look at party selection processes and draws new conclusions as to why political underrepresentation occurs and should inform policies to remedy it This text will be of key interest to scholars and students of gender and ethnicity in politics political parties and candidate selection and more broadly to the study of political elites comparative politics sociology labour studies gender race and disability studies and to practitioners CJLACS, 2005 New Japanese Political Economy and Political Reform Minoru Nakano, 2002 Fin dallo scoppio della bolla economica negli anni 1990 il Giappone stato stretto in una lunga recessione Non c era da aspettarsi di ripetere i risultati delle miracolose performances del passato ma semplicemente combattere per la sopravvivenza Questo drammatico cambiamento induce a riesaminare il sistema giapponese dal punto di vista della teoria e della pratica Annotation Supplied by Informazioni Editoriali Muslims in Western Politics Abdulkader H. Sinno, 2009 Islam as a social and political force in Western liberal democracies Contact Capital in Political Careers Birgitta Niklasson, 2005 Non-party Actors in Electoral Politics David M. Farrell, Rüdiger Schmitt-Beck, 2008 The contemporary electoral process is in many ways far more complex than it used to be This book focuses on the growing involvement of non party actors in the process of selecting candidates as well as involvement during the campaign itself These actors interest groups individual citizens even certain political institutions operate in the campaign environment independently of the parties and their candidates They are not seeking to attain public office nevertheless they interfere in the electoral process in growing numbers and with increasing intensity For the most part they seek to influence electoral outcomes to their advantage and yet on occasions for less selfish reasons such as increasing the quality of the electoral process itself Encompassing a broad range of countries including several old democracies the US Germany Britain Norway Denmark Belgium Israel and others and one new democracy Romania and combining extensive surveys with detailed case studies of recent elections the chapters in this volume take stock of this new feature in the contemporary electoral process along with its origins forms and consequences

The Italian General Election of 2006 James Newell,2008-10-15 This book brings together leading academics to provide a comprehensive analysis of one of the most closely fought general elections in Italian history Covering the political economic and foreign policy background the campaign and the outcome the book offers a sequel to Newell s volume on the 2001 election Closely reflecting the structure of the earlier volume the work gives readers the added value of a book allowing direct comparison of the 2006 election with the previous one while providing insight into an event that is of crucial importance for an understanding of the current trajectory of Italian politics The book begins with a consideration of the context in which the election took place before moving on to consider the preparations made by the two main electoral coalitions in the months leading up to the campaign the campaign issues the role of the media the response of the electorate and the composition of the new parliament Accessible to both specialists and the interested general reader this book will be essential reading for academics election analysts journalists and policy makers alike Patterns of Political Elite Recruitment in Post-communist Romania Laurențiu Ștefan-Scalat,2004 Unity in Diversity? Julia Stamm,2008 Within the context of the newly developing research on European actors this book provides a micro sociological in depth analysis of a specific political elite within the European institutions the positional elite in the European Parliament EP Moreover for the first time the mutual perception of the attitudes and behavioral patterns of MEPs from older and newer member states after the 2004 enlargement is in the spotlight Departing from a broad reception of classical and recent elite literature and based on a sound qualitative empirical investigation Unity in Diversity draws a detailed picture of the heterogeneity of this European political elite which may even help to better assess the dynamics of laboratoire Europe itself The rich interview material supports the central theses of the specific figuration of a European positional elite within the EP as well of an internal heterogeneity of this elite despite discernable commonalities Furthermore the interview extrac Women and Politics around the World [2 volumes] Joyce Gelb,Marian Lief Palley,2009-03-30 A unique two volume examination of the progress women have made in achieving political equality worldwide Women and Politics around the World addresses both transnational issues and specific conditions in approximately 30 different countries The Heart and Soul of the Party Magnus Öhman,2004 This is a Ph D dissertation Although most countries south of the Sahara introduced multiparty systems more than a decade ago much remains to be understood about the political parties active within these systems General statements about African parties are common but tend to lack support from systematic research Among the least studied areas is African party organization including such issues as how parties function and who decides what One useful way of studying the power dynamics within political parties is to analyze how parliamentary candidates are selected While a common theme in party research in established democracies this is the first systematic study of the subject in Africa This book analyzes the selection system used in recent elections in 31 parties in 17 African countries while a closer study of Ghana offers more detailed information It is found that the selection process in many political parties is significantly more decentralized than general theories about African parties would suggest In sharp contrast to arguments about the stability of African elites incumbent Members of Parliament are often very vulnerable to challenges from other aspirants in their parties It is argued that the logic of clientelism plays an important role in explaining these findings

Politicians and Politics in Latin America Manuel Alcántara Sáez, 2008 The premise of this book is simply that politicians matter that an understanding of the role played by politicians in the way that politics is carried out in their countries is far from constituting a resurrection of outdated elitist theories of vital importance in present day Latin America pioneering field research on the opinions of Latin American legislators in 17 countries they focus on two broad topics political systems as reflected in politicians perspectives on the democracies and party organizations of which they are a part and the role played by ideology not only in shaping positions on issues but also as a factor that gives coherence to parties Their seminal work is central to the current political dynamics in the region as well as to broader debates in political science

Federalism and Second Chambers Wilfried Swenden, 2004 The theory of coparative federalism asserts that federations require a second chamber for the representation of regional interests in central law making Yet there has been little systematic analysis of the contribution of second chambers in parliamentary federations to this task The main purpose of this book is to demonstrate to what extent the two strongest parliamentary second chambers the Australian Senate and the German Bundesrat are linked to the federal structures in which they are embedded The study analyzes the contribution of the members of these second chambers in advancing interests that are linked to the regional constituents whom they represent or to the collective fiscal or administrative interests of a regional government with whom they are associated The analysis underscores the largely executive character of intergovernmental relations in parliamentary federations a feature that corresponds with the composition of the German Bundesrat but not of the Australian Senate In the concluding chapter some preliminary observations are made as to whether our findings also generate interesting insights for the larger group of parliamentary second chambers in federal or quasi federal states such as the Belgian Spanish and Canadian Senates the UK House of Lords and the Indian Raiya Sabha
