Our Common Future:

Our Common Future, 2013 Our Common Future Great Britain. Department of the Environment, World Commission on Environment and Development, 1988 Defining Sustainable Development for Our Common Future Iris Borowy, 2013-12-04 The UN World Commission on Environment and Development chaired by former Norwegian Prime Minister Gro Harlem Brundtland alerted the world to the urgency of making progress toward economic development that could be sustained without depleting natural resources or harming the environment Written by an international group of politicians civil servants and experts on the environment and development the Brundtland Report changed sustainable development from a physical notion to one based on social economic and environmental issues This book positions the Brundtland Commission as a key event within a longer series of international reactions to pressing problems of global poverty and environmental degradation It shows that its report Our Common Future published in 1987 covered much more than its definition of sustainable development as development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs for which it became best known It also addressed a long list of issues which remain unresolved today The book explores how the work of the Commission juggled contradictory expectations and world views which existed within the Commission and beyond and drew on the concept of sustainable development as a way to reconcile profound differences The result was both an immense success and disappointment Coining an irresistibly simple definition enabled the Brundtland Commission to place sustainability firmly on the international agenda This definition gained acceptability for a potentially divisive concept but it also diverted attention from underlying demands for fundamental political and social changes Meanwhile the central message of the Commission the need to make inconvenient sustainability considerations a part of global politics as much as of everyday life has been side lined The book thus assesses to what extent the Brundtland Commission represented an immense step forward or a missed opportunity What Next for Sustainable Development? James Meadowcroft, David Banister, Erling Holden, Oluf Langhelle, Kristin Linnerud, Geoffrey Gilpin, 2019 This book examines the international experience with sustainable development since the concept was brought to world wide attention in Our Common Future the 1987 report of the World Commission on Environment and Development Scholars from a variety of disciplinary backgrounds engage with three critical themes negotiating environmental limits equity environment and development and transitions and transformations In light of the 2030 Sustainable Development Goals recently adopted by the United Nations General Assembly they ask what lies ahead for sustainable development An Analysis of The Brundtland Commission's Our Common Future Ksenia Gerasimova, 2017-07-05 Our Common Future is a joint work produced in 1987 by a United Nations commission headed by former Norwegian Prime Minister Gro Brundtland Also known as The Brundtland Report it offers a classic approach to problem solving by first asking a productive question How do we protect the world we live in for future generations while at the same time stimulating economic and social development right now The solution the work proposes is sustainable development defined in the report as humanity's ability to ensure that it meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs The key conclusion the report came to that we need long term strategies to manage the earth's natural resources proved to be so universally welcomed it introduced the term sustainability into the everyday language of international politics Solving the problem of workable sustainable development became a hot topic leading to the birth of a new academic discipline environmental economics The book offered a solution to the problem of ensuring sustainable development by highlighting the critical importance of international cooperation

Our American Ethos Jason M Ritchie,2005-08 American Ethos is the idea that the achievement of mutually beneficial goals is the best way to grow our national unity and ensure our future as a free and democratic America It is the prospect that we can establish basic ideals we all share as Americans not based on a particular social value special interest partisan or local concern but rather by looking at our country and our people as a whole group not a collection of competing minorities We must unify and move forward

Sustainable Development: Science, Ethics, and Public Policy J. Lemons,Donald A. Brown,2013-06-29 Of all the books written about the problems of sustainable development and environmental protection Sustainable Development Science Ethics and Public Policy is one of the first to examine the role of science economics and law and ethics as generally applied to decision making on sustainable development particularly in respect to the recommendations contained in Agenda 21 Specifically the book examines the role capabilities and certain strengths and weaknesses of these disciplines and their ethical implications in the context of sustainable development problems Such an analysis is necessary to determine whether sustainable development problems create important new challenges and problems for government so that where appropriate new tools or approaches may be designed to overcome limitations or take advantage of the strengths of current scientific economic and legal capabilities Audience Environmental professionals whether academic governmental or industrial or in the private consultancy sector Also suitable as an upper level text or reference

The Routledge Handbook of Tourism and the Environment Andrew Holden,David A. Fennell,2013 This handbook explores and critically evaluates the debates and controversies inherent to tourism's relationship with nature especially pertinent at a time of major re evaluation of our relationship with the environment as a consequence of the environmental problems we now face

Law relating to Bio-Medical Waste Management with Special Reference to Bangalore Urban City Dr. Shivakumar M.A,2023-06-22 All Human activities produce certain kinds of waste such waste may be dangerous and it needs safe and proper disposal It can also be dangerous to human beings and the environment The improper management of Bio Medical Waste generated in Health Care Institutions Hospitals severely affects the health of patients staff and the public at large and also has an adverse impact on the environment In addition pollution from improper treatment of waste directly affects the health of the community in this affinity the author has selected a specific area and collected necessary research data by personally visiting the selected Health Care Institutions within Bangalore Urban City Therefore this book comprises Bio Medical Waste Management and its impact on the Environment and Human beings National and International Legal framework on Health Care Waste Management it is useful for students who are studying Bachelor of Law LL B Master of Law LL M Ph D scholars Doctors Nurses and persons who are handling of Health Care Waste Management at Hospital Labs Clinics and all Health Care Institutions Sustainable Value Creation Teun Wolters,2023-07-26 Sustainability sheds a whole new light on economic value creation Sustainable value creation means looking critically at both revenues and costs Not everything that makes money is of value Not everything for which no bill is sent is free This book explains how this is the case and what it means to incorporate sustainability into a company s strategy and manage activities based on sustainable principles At the same time it keeps an eye on the broader societal context in which companies operate such climate change policies the SDGs and ESG finance Since the launch of the concept of sustainable development many policies at various institutional levels have focused on reducing environmental damage and social ills This book reflects this broader context However despite many serious efforts it cannot be denied that these policies do not stand up against continued economic growth and a growing global population This is why this book also stresses that more radical approaches are needed for a successful transformation towards a sustainable society Businesses should not be content to wait and see what lies ahead They need to proactively take ownership of the change process that is needed The book has eight chapters that discuss the various aspects of sustainable value creation from different points of view including sustainable management and chain management as well as sustainable accounting and reporting It gives a concise but well underpinned picture of what sustainable business means today Green Development W. M. Adams,2003-09-02 This revised and updated new edition retains the clear and powerful argument which characterized the original It gives a valuable analysis of the theory and practice of sustainable development and suggests that at the start of the new millennium we should think radically about the challenge of sustainability Fully revised this latest edition includes further reading chapter outlines chapter summaries and new discussion topics and explores the roots of sustainable development thinking and its evolution in the last three decades of the twentieth century the dominant ideas within mainstream sustainable development the nature and diversity of alternative ideas about sustainability the problems of environmental degradation and the environmental impacts of development strategies for building sustainability in development from above and below Offering a synthesis of theoretical ideas on sustainability based on the industrialized economies of the North and the practical applied ideas in the South which tend to ignore First World theory this important text gives a clear discussion of theory and extensive practical insights drawn from Africa Latin America and Asia Signs of Hope Linda Starke,1990 This Book Records Progress In The Implementation Of The Recommendations Of Our Common Future And Looks At Governments Industry Scientists Non Governmental Organizations The Media And Young People It Also Points To Areas Where Progress Has Not
