Politics Of Visual Language:

The Politics of Visual Language James Roots, 1999 The Politics of Visual Language is a ground breaking study of the political socialization of children who are deaf Debate has raged for years over how to educate the prelingually deaf those children who cannot acquire language normally that is orally and aurally While the battlelines have been drawn by the proponents of oralism versus manualism and their hearing supporters two linguistic dilemmas facing D deaf people remain constant a conscious choice is always made for them as to the way they will be taught and either method of language acquisition results in a form of marginalization

The Politics of Visual Language James Douglas Roots, Carleton University. Dissertation. Political Science, 1995

Visual Border Politics Laura Holderied, 2026-05-15 The book highlights how images shape Europe s migration policies using the pivotal 2015 refugee crisis as a lens to examine the complex intersection of visual media and border governance Understanding visual border politics as situated practices of meaning making that operate against the background of a structured visual order it presents a critical framework that combines analyses of policy discourse and visual media discourse Drawing on a broad sample of policy documents a large visual dataset and media analysis the book adds complexity to existing analyses of visual politics in the context of migration It shows that visual border politics do not operate in straightforward ways but are instead contextually bound Whether images can be mobilized to legitimate policies depends on a number of factors such as current and previous policies the discursive climate domestic developments collective visual memories and constitutions of collective identities Drawing on insights from Critical Migration and Border Studies Critical Security Studies Visual International Relations Visual Culture Studies and Memory Studies this volume will be of interest for multiple disciplines including International Relations Politics Sociology Anthropology European Studies Cultural Studies Media and Communication Studies History Geography and International Law

Politics, Transgression, and Representation at the Court of Charles II Julia Marciari Alexander, Catharine MacLeod, 2007 This volume brings together ten distinguished scholars of history literature music theatre and art to explore the political and cultural implications of the court s transgressive new character

Archaeology and the Politics of Vision in a Post-modern Context Julian Thomas, Vítor Oliveira Jorge, 2008 Archaeology is intimately connected to the modern regime of vision A concern with optics was fundamental to the Scientific Revolution and informed the moral theories of the Enlightenment And from its inception archaeology was concerned with practices of depiction and classification that were profoundly scopic in character Drawing on both the visual arts and the depictive practices of the sciences employing conventionalised forms of illustration photography and spatial technologies archaeology presents a paradigm of visualised knowledge However a number of thinkers from Jean Paul Sartre onwards have cautioned that vision presents at once a partial and a politicised way of apprehending the world In this volume authors from archaeology and other disciplines address the problems that face the study of the past in an era in which realist modes of representation and the philosophies in which they are grounded in are increasingly open to question

Politics of Visual Language James Roots, 1999-05-25 The Politics of Visual Language is a fascinating and unique perspective on the whole process of political socialization unique because previous studies in this field have assumed that all participants in the process can hear This work studies those who cannot hear and while it attempts an impartial assessment of all educational methodologies will undoubtedly raise new questions within the Deaf community and beyond Sociologists educators medical professionals linguists psychologists and political scientists will have to reconsider the emotional and political effects of current assumptions about the socialization process

Poetics and Politics in the Art of Rudolf Baranik David Craven, 1997 His paintings have increasingly come to be considered among the most significant works of the New York School painting of the 1960s and 1970s exemplifying what Theodor Adorno called committed art The second half of the book is an anthology of Baranik's aphoristic essays on art and politics which appeared in various art world publications over the last four decades and have been written in conjunction with political involvements that led Lucy Lippard to call Baranik an activist par excellence
