Medical Practice In A Multicultural Society:

Medical Practice in a Multicultural Society Jonathan Henry Shaw Fuller, Peter Dennis Toon, 1988-01-01 TEMAS (Tell-Me-A-Story) Assessment in Multicultural Societies Giuseppe Costantino, Richard H. Dana, Robert G. Malgady, 2020-08-26

Ethnic minority children now comprise over 75 percent of students in 100 of the largest cities in the United States. However, these students have not been given equal access to nor benefited from the contemporary mental health system as have their non-minority peers. TEMAS Tell Me A Story Assessment in Multicultural Societies examines the health mental care system in which professional service providers including psychologists labor to offer quality care for youth in the United States. The authors ardently support the use of the TEMAS assessment instrument as a useful tool for diagnosis of all youngsters, particularly its use on the growing population of minority children and adolescents. Part I presents a rationale and context for employing TEMAS. Introductory chapters describe the mental health status of the population at risk as well as systems of care for youth where assessment and intervention are components. Topics to follow highlight a history of positive TEMAS test reviews with the detail required by instructors for preparing dedicated TEMAS courses. The volume thoroughly outlines cross-cultural studies and illustrates case examples of European American, Hispanic Latino, Asian American, and forensic studies. TEMAS Tell Me A Story Assessment in Multicultural Societies brings practical insight to instructors who teach standard assessment courses, clinicians, counselors, and school psychologists, assessment specialists, and administrators concerned with mental health services designed for children and adolescents.

Global Bioethics and Human Rights Wanda Teays, Alison Dundes Renteln, 2020-02-06. The ethical issues we face in healthcare, justice, and human rights are global and cross-cultural in scope. The second edition of this interdisciplinary and international collection features new essays on the environment, medical tourism, mental health, vaccines, and other contemporary concerns. Bioethics and Human Rights Wanda Teays, Alison Dundes Renteln, 2023-12-12. This third edition collection provides a contemporary survey of current international issues in bioethics and human rights for study across social science disciplines. New chapters discuss the reproductive justice in the US, immigration politics, and medical duty during pandemics, climate change implications for bioethics, acoustic weaponry, technologies, and vaccine politics. Following a consideration of theoretical frameworks, there are three units on human rights, life and death, and public health, forming an in-depth look at contemporary issues in the field of bioethics. Each unit includes cutting-edge analyses by international experts and thought-provoking case studies, as well as discussion and essay prompts and Internet and film resources. Topics range from pediatric genomics, abortion, including the Dobbs decision, medical tourism, human experimentation, climate change, the Havana syndrome, the care of aging family members, truth-telling, vulnerable human subjects, health equity, healthcare in ICE detention facilities, solitary confinement, euthanasia, lethal injections, and the harvesting of human organs, pandemic ethics, vaccine controversies, and more. The new, updated, and retained chapters make this book an appealing resource as a primary text, scholarly reference book, or a course

Multicultural Policies and the State Marco Martiniello (sociology.), 1998 Contains papers that originated as contributions to a Belgo British seminar held in Brussels in January 1995 comparing Britain and Belgium Papers are grouped in sections on conflicting views on multiculturalism and the multicultural society multicultural policies and the state in Britain and Belgium ethnic political mobilization and cultural claims and ethnic relations and religious diversity Specific topics include nationalism and women integration policies and the religious element in the ethnic consciousness of Moroccan immigrants in Belgium Distributed by Ashgate Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The Limitations of the Western Scientific Model of Medical Practice in Australia's Multicultural Society, 1988* Delivering Services in Multicultural Societies Alexandre Marc, 2010 The last twenty years has witnessed a growing recognition of the importance of considering cultural and ethnic diversity in the design and implementation of development programs The increasing cultural diversity of societies throughout the world and the important role of culture in identity formation in a global society create a major challenge for national and local governments in ensuring social cohesion and inclusion This book reviews recent approaches in taking into account cultural diversity in delivery of basic services It first discusses the idea that supporting cultural diversity can help achieve social inclusion and social cohesion It provides an outlook on the debate on multiculturalism from various perspectives and discusses the benefits and risks of policies supporting cultural diversity The book then examines policies and programs supporting cultural diversity in the delivery of basic services education health care customary law traditional governance systems and cultural services For each of these services the book reviews the main challenges and describes best practices Finally the book attempts a synthesis of what has been learned from the experience of taking cultural diversity into account in delivery of services

Cultural Competence In Assessment And Intervention With Ethnic Minorities: Some Perspectives From Psychology, Social Work and Education Robert G. Malgady,2011 Without a thorough understanding of culture and its nuances on part of the mental health service providers alienation stigma and culturally based impediments rule While concerns for diversity have been raised on numerous occasions with increasing frequency over the past four decades little progress has been made in implementing such concerns in clinical practice Over two thirds of Americans receive treatment for depression anxiety substance abuse and related disorders Comorbidity is rarely diagnosed These trends are greatly exacerbated among members of ethnic cultural and linguistic minority groups the authors contributing to this volume share their clinical acumen and experiences rooted in their evidence based research Their purpose is to bring issues attending assessment and treatment of ethnic minority clientele closer to the fore Some of the leading authors on the topic in psychology and social work present their well earned clinical and research experiences in this volume Case studies are presented which are instructive and intriguing bringing together the richness of a multidisciplinary approach to the topic

Palliative Care for Chronic Cancer Patients in the Community Michael Silbermann,2020-10-29 The new global cancer data suggests that the global burden has risen to 18.1 million new cases per year and 9.6 million cancer deaths per year A number of factors appear to be driving this increase in particular a growing and aging global population and an increase of exposure to cancer risk factors linked to social and economic development For rapidly growing economies the data suggests a shift from poverty or infection related cancers to those associated with lifestyles more typical in industrialized countries There is still large geographical diversity in cancer occurrence and variations in the magnitude and profile of the disease between and within world regions There are specific types of cancer that dominate globally lung female breast and colorectal cancer and the regional variations in common cancer types signal the extent to which societal economic and lifestyle changes interplay to differentially impact on the profile of this most complex group of diseases Unfortunately despite advances in cancer care a significant proportion of patients at home experience sub optimal outcomes Barriers to successful treatment outcomes include but are not limited to access to oncologists in the primary health centers non adherence lack of experienced oncology and palliative care nurses in the community inadequate monitoring and the lack of training of family and pediatric physicians Telemedicine approaches including telephone triage education telemonitoring teleconsultation and status tracking through mobile applications have shown promise in further improving outcomes in particular for chronic cancer patients following their hospitalization Lessons can be learned from existing hospices in North America the United Kingdom Australia Centers of Excellence in African Uganda and modern community services in India Kerala An important goal of this book is to describe and encourage professionals to develop new community programs in palliative care which include training and empowering physicians and nurses in the community on the principles of palliative care The Middle East Cancer Consortium MECC together with the American Society of Clinical Oncology ASCO and the American Oncology Nursing Society ONS have conducted multiple courses ranging from basic palliative care to more specialized training in palliative care for multiple nationalities in Europe Asia and Africa Our experience clearly indicates that to promote such activities one needs strong leadership and confirmed political will to support the endeavor The new book will emphasize the importance of having a core of multiple stakeholders including community leaders government NGOs and media to be actively involved in advocating for the cause and generating public awareness This text will provide the reader with a comprehensive understanding of the outside of the hospital treatment of cancer patients by medical paramedical and volunteer personnel In doing so this text will encourage the creation of new palliative care services improving upon the existing ones and stimulate further research in this field Part 1 of the text will begin with an overview of the current state of affairs of services provided to cancer patients while being cared for by primary health centers It will also review the current literature regarding medical and psychological based therapy options in the community for cancer patients at different stages of their disease Part 2 will address the unique role of the community nurse within the framework of the multidisciplinary team treating the patient in the attempt to provide optimal evaluation and care in very challenging situations such as with terminal patients Part 3 will provide insightful models of this new discipline and serve as a valuable resource for physicians nurses social workers and others involved in the care of cancer patients The book will take a multidisciplinary approach integrating clinical and environmental data for practical management to enhance the efficacy of treatment while relieving suffering Part 4 will also discuss the application of modern technological approaches to track symptoms quality of life diet mobility duration of sleep and medication use including pain killers in chronic cancer patients in the community Part 5 of the book will also be devoted to modes of developing a collaborative program between governmental and non governmental organization sectors This includes volunteer workers in close collaboration with medical professionals for providing emotional and spiritual support nursing care nutritional support and empowering family caregivers Such a model makes palliative care in the community a people s movement thus transferring part of the responsibility and ownership to the community

Social and Biological Aspects of Ethnicity Malcolm Chapman, 1993 This book details the biology and sociology of ethnicity showing how the two factors influence each other The book first introduces the history of the concept of ethnicity and discusses recent uses of the term in social anthropology The view that ethnic groups are biological entities which pervades most academic disciplines is contrasted to the current social anthropological idea that ethnic groups are self defined social creations Social decisions and actions by ethnic groups are shown to have significant biological effects as exemplified by genetic and epidemiological data The book includes an in depth case study of the Basque people and shows the relevance of social and biological criteria for identifying ethnic membership
