Medieval History, 1858 Medieval Record Alfred J. Andrea, 2020-03-01 Fully updated and revised this edition of a classic medieval source collection features Clear modern English translations based on the best available critical editions of more than 116 documentary sources more than any other book of its kind Thirty four artifactual sources ranging from fine art to everyday items A broad topical geographical and chronological approach including textual and artifactual selections that shed light on such often overlooked cohorts as women Jews in Christian Europe Byzantium and Islam and that range in time from the second century to 1493 Introductions and notes setting each source in its historical context A detailed Student's Guide providing step by step instruction on how to analyze documentary and artifactual sources Numerous illustrations in each chapter Topical Contents and a Glossary to assist students in their research A Source Book for Mediaeval History : Selected Documents illustrating the History of Europe in the Middle Age Oliver J. Thatcher, Edgar Holmes McNeal, 1905 A Source Book for Mediaeval History Selected Documents illustrating the History of Europe in the Middle Age It will be observed that we have made use chiefly of documents quoting from chronicles only when it seemed absolutely necessary An exception to this general principle is found in section I where a larger use of chronicles was rendered necessary by the lack of documentary sources for much of the period covered but it is perhaps unnecessary to apologize for presenting selections from the important histories of Tacitus Gregory Einhard and Widukind In the matter of form translation omissions arrangements notes etc we were guided by considerations of the purpose of the book The style of most of the documents in the original is involved obscure bombastic and repetitious A faithful rendition into English would often be quite unintelligible We have endeavored to make a clear and readable translation but always to give the correct meaning If we have failed in the latter it is not for want of constant effort We have not hesitated to omit phrases and clauses often of a parenthetical nature the presence of which in the translation would only render the passage obscure and obstruct the thought As a rule we have given the full text of the body of the document but we have generally omitted the first and last paragraphs the former containing usually titles and pious generalities and the latter being composed of lists of witnesses etc We have given a sufficient number of the documents in full to illustrate these features of medi val diplomatics All but the most trivial omissions in the text which are matters rather of form of translation are indicated thus Insertions in the text to explain the meaning of phrases are inclosed in brackets Quotations from the Bible are regularly given in the words of the Authorized Version but where the Latin taken from the Vulgate differs in any essential manner we have sometimes translated the passage literally Within each section the documents are arranged in chronological order except in a few cases where the topical arrangement seemed necessary We believe that the explanatory notes in the form of introductions and foot notes will be found of service they are by no means exhaustive but are intended to explain the setting and importance of the document and the difficult or obscure passages it may contain The reference to the work or the collection in which the original is found is given after the title of practically every document the meaning of the references will be plain from the accompanying bibliography The original of nearly all the documents is in Latin some few are in Greek Old French or German and in such cases the language of the original is indicated It is impossible of course to give explicit directions as to the use of the book other than the very obvious methods of requiring the student to read and analyze the documents assigned in connection with the lesson in the text book and of making clear to him the relation of the document to the event It may be possible also for the teacher to give the student some notion of the meaning of historical method e g the necessity of making allowance for the ignorance or the bias of the author in chronicles or the way in which a knowledge of institutions is deduced from incidental references in documents Suggestions of both sorts will be found in the introduction and notes The teacher should insist on the use of such helps as are found in the book notes cross references glossary etc Groups of documents can be used to advantage in topical work assigned topics worked up from authorities can be illustrated by documents selected from the book e g imperial elections papal elections the Normans in Sicily history of the Austrian dominions Germans and Slavs on the eastern frontier relations of the emperors and the popes before the investiture strife etc

Medieval History Donald A. White, 1968 A Source Book for Medieval History Oliver J. Thatcher, 2015-07-04

Excerpt from A Source Book for Medieval History: Selected Documents Illustrating the History of Europe in the Middle Age. The use of original sources in the teaching of mediaeval history is still hampered by the scarcity of material adapted to the needs of the student. This situation is sufficient excuse for the publication of a new book of translations of important mediaeval documents if such a book does more than reedit old material if it presents along with the usual and familiar sources documents not elsewhere translated or brings together documents not otherwise easily accessible. We believe the present work does that and that it also makes the use of this material more practicable by giving fuller notes and explanations than has usually been attempted. Our purpose in general has been to present material touching only what may be called the most important matters: persons, events, movements, institutions, and conditions of the whole mediaeval period. We have not tried to make a complete source book for the period but only to offer in usable form illustrative material which may be of service to both teacher and student in general or information courses. Each document is meant to illustrate or illumine one particular thing. While it may throw light on many other things, the teacher should be warned not to attempt to deduce from these few documents the whole history and life of the Middle Age. We are fully aware that in the choice of documents we shall not please all. Many of the documents here given are clearly essential and must be found in such a book as we have tried to make. Concerning all such there can be no question. As to the others there are hundreds of documents which would serve our purpose quite as well as those we have used, perhaps even better. In making our selections we have been guided by a great variety of considerations which it would be useless to enumerate. While another would have made a different selection, we believe that the documents which we present really illustrate the matter in question and therefore will be found satisfactory. With this we shall be quite content. The necessity of selection has also led us to omit the political history.
