Renewing Hope Within Neighborhoods:

Renewing Hope within Neighborhoods of Despair Herbert J. Rubin, 2000-04-27 Builds upon the narratives of community development activists to describe how they bring about affordable quality housing commercial opportunities and empowerment within poor areas

Place Matters Peter Dreier, John H. Mollenkopf, Todd Swanstrom, 2004 Analyzes the problematic trends facing America's cities and older suburbs and challenges us to put America's urban crisis back on the national agenda

Urban Land, 2002

Renewing Hope Billie Davis, 1995

Urban Neighborhood Revitalization and Heritage Conservation Chukwunyerere C. Ugochukwu, 2006 Based on case study methodologies this study examines various urban design measures of African American culture heritage as reflected in the built environments of three historic inner city African American neighborhoods Bronzeville Chicago Five Points Denver and Farish Street Historic District Jackson Mississippi

Shelterforce, 2001

The Creation of a Community Land Trust Program in Oakland, California Amy Beth Cohen, 2002

Community Building in the Twenty-first Century Stanley Hyland (Ph. D.), 2005

Community has long been a critical concept for social scientists and never more so amid the growing economic inequity natural and human disasters and warfare of the opening years of the twenty first century In this volume leading scholar activists develop a conceptual framework for both the theory and practice of building communities Rethinking the very concept in light of technological change and globalization they examine local responses to worldwide trends study the ways that communities generate and use resources and evaluate existing theories and approaches to community building to determine the best strategies for fostering community strength and vitality Their work with groups ranging from refugees religious charities and poor urban neighborhoods to tribal peoples international corporations and public health agencies demonstrates that local communities contain the seeds for a more desirable future and suggests how we may encourage those seeds to grow

Race, Politics, and Community Development in U.S. Cities James Jennings, 2004-07 As U S cities compete for economic resources many city leaders adopt business friendly policies which boost opportunities for big businesses and institutions in their area This progrowth strategy proposes to generate jobs for residents and higher tax revenues for local government As a result according to the logic of progrowth economic benefits will trickle down to improve the living conditions in working class and impoverished neighborhoods In spite of this strategy poverty rates among urban Latinos and Blacks is staggering even in cities that have pursued neoliberal policies These progrowth strategies seem to have had little or no impact on resolving problems like poverty unemployment homelessness and the alienation of youth from communities of color Community development has been and continues to be a response to these kinds of problems But local political struggles can determine the direction of community development towards neighborhood empowerment and representation of neighborhood interests versus community development on behalf of progrowth policies This issue of the ANNALS examines the interplay between progrowth politics community development and race It goes well beyond a broad brushstroke of the topic and examines several specific cities and how they have implemented these strategies and their impact on impoverished populations and race relations By using concrete examples the authors discuss how community development fits or does not fit within the framework of progrowth policies and politics The volume covers several important themes Community development is not politically neutral and must be discussed within a broad political economic and even global context Local politics play a major role in determining the direction nature and possibilities of community development A high level and sustained community participation is crucial for the representation of low income urban neighborhoods in cities pursuing progrowth policies Race remains a fundamental issue I city politics and influences the political interplay between progrowth strategies and community development Utilizing information and analysis across several disciplines this issue offers important research for students scholars and practitioners in areas of political science economics sociology urban studies and race relations

Housing Policy Debate ,2011      Community Organizing and Development
Herbert J. Rubin,Irene Rubin,2008 This revised edition of a well known and widely used text in community organizing and development fully examines the broad and changing political and social settings that influence actions while portraying the infra structure of social change the knowledge personnel and organizations that enable such work to be successfully accomplished The text brings together the practicalities of organizing and development fund raising working out news releases running an organization orchestrating political actions academic knowledge and explains why various approaches work as well as the values and ideologies that guide what is to be done It provides the foundations of organizing and development work and then describes how activists through following either a social confrontation model or an economic and social production approach can respond to economic and social problems

Planning Forum ,2009      Transforming Or Reforming Capitalism John Loxley,2007 Growing worldwide interest in community economic development has led to a blossoming of how to manuals as well as analyses of co operatives development corporations gender financing etc Yet in all this discussion very little is said about the basic objective of CED Is it designed to fill holes left by capitalism or is it intended to replace it There is equally little on a theory of CED This book draws on several disciplines particularly economics sociology and political studies to assess the state of CED theory and to identify implicit issues for building that theory It emphasizes the necessity to draw theoretical insights from each discipline in the process howing the efficacy of interdisciplinary approaches It concludes with a discussion of both future theoretical directions and of what existing theory has to say about achieving a transformative CED pub website

American Recreation Journal ,1961      "Big Y" Bulletin ,1924      Lewis & Clark Law Review ,2003      Asset Building and Community Development Gary Paul Green,Anna Haines,2002 In Asset Building and Community Development Gary Paul Green and Anna Haines provide an engaging thought provoking interdisciplinary overview of the community development field They explore the history of the community development movement in the United States and in international settings Using an asset based approach that considers human physical social financial and environmental capital the authors skillfully demonstrate how local organizations are better able to meet community needs than governmental programs or market strategies The Journal of Small and Emerging Business Law ,2003
