Representing Direction In Language And Space:

Representing Direction in Language and Space Emile van der Zee, J. M. Slack, 2003 At the forefront of research in the interfaces between brain perception and language this book examines how directions such as under the tree are represented in our minds before we even start speaking and how directions are expressed in different languages

Representing Direction in Language and Space Emile van der Zee, J. M. Slack, 2003 This book considers how it is possible for people to use directions like above the table or over the city How does our brain or any other information processing system represent a direction as a spatial entity And how is it possible to link such a representation to language so that we talk about a direction we have in mind When we look at or imagine a scene what entities can be employed for representing a direction and what are the parts in language that can be used to talk about directions This book brings together research from linguistics psychology philosophy computer science anthropology and neuroscience to answer these intriguing questions By considering direction representation across different languages and in different information processing systems this book gives an overview of the main issues in this area for both the interested novice and the specialized researcher

Syntax and Semantics of Spatial P Anna Asbury, 2008 The category P belongs to a less studied area in theoretical linguistics which has only recently attracted considerable attention This volume brings together pioneering work on adpositions in spatial relations from different theoretical and cross linguistic perspectives The common theme in these contributions is the complex semantic and syntactic structure of PPs Analyses are presented in several different frameworks and approaches including generative syntax optimality theoretic semantics and syntax formal semantics mathematical modeling lexical syntax and pragmatics Among the languages featured in detail are English German Hebrew Igbo Italian Japanese and Persian This volume will be of interest to students and researchers of formal semantics syntax and language typology as well as scholars with a more general interest in spatial cognition

Space and Time in Languages and Cultures Luna Filipovi?, Kasia M. Jaszczolt, Katarzyna Jaszczolt, 2012 This volume offers novel insights into linguistic diversity in the domains of spatial and temporal reference searching for uniformity amongst diversity A number of authors discuss expression of dynamic spatial relations cross linguistically in a vast range of typologically different languages such as Bezhta French Hinuq Italian Japanese Polish Serbian and Spanish among others The contributions on linguistic expression of time all shed new light on pertinent questions regarding this cognitive domain such as the hotly debated relationship between cross linguistic differences in talking about time and universal principles of utterance interpretation modelling temporal inference through aspectual interactions as well as the complexity of the acquisition of tense aspect relations in a second language The topic of space and time in language and culture is also represented from a different point of view in the sister volume Space and Time in Languages and Cultures Language Culture and Cognition HCP 37 which discusses spatial and temporal constructs in human language cognition and culture in order to come closer to a better understanding of the interaction between shared and individual characteristics of language and culture that shape the way people interact with each other and exchange information about the spatio temporal constructs that underlie their cognitive social and linguistic foundations □□□□
