Reporting China in Africa Herman Wasserman, 2016-03-31 This book discusses the growing media engagement between China and Africa from the point of view of both these regions The rapid increase in Sino African contact has led to many controversies and debates in the media often represented in simplistic terms and stereotypes that call for more in depth scholarly analysis Not only have the relationship between Africa and China made headlines in the media but the media itself has also become increasingly central in the exchanges of capital and human resources between these two regions The media has also become the terrain where China's new foreign policy takes shape in the form of soft power This volume brings together authors from Africa China the US UK and Europe to provide analysis comment and empirical evidence to deepen our understanding of how the geopolitical shift towards the emerging regions of China and Africa are playing out on media terrain The implications for transnational flows of media capital and content on journalistic approaches press freedom and normative frameworks are discussed as well as how African journalists have responded to these changes The result is a collection of perspectives that refuses simplistic conclusions about what the growing engagement between China and Africa might mean but presents a range of arguments informed by scholarly research This book was originally published as a special issue of Ecquid Novi African Journalism Studies

Reporting Disasters Suzanne Franks, 2014-03-01 The media reporting of the Ethiopian Famine in 1984-5 was an iconic news event It is widely believed to have had an unprecedented impact challenging perceptions of Africa and mobilising public opinion and philanthropic action in a dramatic new way The contemporary international configuration of aid media pressure and official policy is still directly affected and sometimes distorted by what was as this narrative shows also an inaccurate and misleading story In popular memory the reporting of Ethiopia and the resulting humanitarian intervention were a great success Yet alternative interpretations give a radically different picture of misleading journalism and an aid effort which did more harm than good Using privileged access to BBC and Government archives Reporting Disasters examines and reveals the internal factors which drove BBC news and offers a rare case study of how the media can affect public opinion and policymaking It constructs the process that accounts for the immensity of the news event following the response at the heart of government to the pressure of public opinion And it shows that while the reporting and the altruistic festival that it produced triggered remarkable and identifiable changes the on going impact was not what the conventional account claims it to have been Reporting Africa in African and International Mass Media Olav Stokke,1971
