Modern Rice Technology and Income Distribution in Asia Cristina C. David, Keijiro Otsuka, 1994 Modern Rice Technology and Income Distribution in Asia Cristina C. David, Keijiro Otsuka, 1994 Studies seven Asian countries with diverse production environments and agrarian and policy structures to determine to what extent the adoption of modern rice varieties MVs only in the irrigated and the favourable rain fed lowland areas has exacerbated inequalities in income distribution An International Rice Research Institute Project. Modern Rice Technology and Income

Distribution in Asia Cristina C. David, Keijiro Otsuka, 2023 Looking at seven Asian countries with widely diverse production environments and agrarian and policy structures the authors investigate to what extent the limited adoption of MVs in the irrigated and the favorable rainfed lowland areas has exacerbated inequalities in the distribution of income

International Rice Research Notes Vol 19 No 4 , The State of Food and Agriculture 1998 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 1998-01-01 This annual report provides basic information on the global agricultural situation A review of developments in food security opens this year s report with new estimates on the proportion a chapter on rural non farm income a diskette housing time series data for nearly 150 countries country groups regions in English French Spanish Recommended in ALA s Guide to Reference Books Transforming Agriculture in South Asia Ashok K. Mishra, Anjani Kumar, Pramod K. Joshi, 2020-12-30 Debates about public expenditure in the agricultural sector have reopened in many developing and emerging economies because of high budget deficits and changes in public opinion As a result agricultural policy in many of these countries is beginning to take a more market oriented approach to agrarian problems most notably through the introduction of contract farming This book explores the policy issues around contract farming and its transformative potential and addresses the lack of empirical research on this topic by focusing on South Asia principally India Bangladesh and Nepal The book first addresses the effects of contract farming vertical coordination on productivity food security indicators yield consumption expenditures prices employment and input usage Then it draws lessons from the South Asian case studies on the impact of institutional changes like contract farming on income and food security of smallholder households The core of the book includes case study chapters on several commodities that are produced under contract farming including vegetables and fisheries in Bangladesh low value crops in Nepal and coffee in India Other chapters also explore contracts storage input usage and technical efficiency in these cases This book serves as an essential guide to academics researchers students legislative liaisons and think tank groups interested in agrarian issues agricultural economics and agricultural policy in emerging economies and particularly in South Asia

Paths to the Emerging State in Asia and Africa Keijiro Otsuka, Kaoru Sugihara, 2019-01-16 This book is open access under a CC BY NC ND license This book addresses the issue of how a country which was incorporated into the world economy as a periphery could make a transition to the emerging state capable of undertaking the task of economic development and industrialization It offers historical and contemporary case studies of transition as well as the international background under which such a transition was successfully made or delayed by combining the approaches of economic history and development economics Its aim is to identify relevant historical contexts that is the initial conditions and internal and external forces which governed the transition It also aims to understand what current low income developing countries require for their transition Three economic driving forces for the transition are identified They are 1 labor intensive industrialization which offers ample employment opportunities for labor force 2 international trade which facilitates efficient international division of labor and 3 agricultural development which improves food security by increasing supply of staple foods The book presents a bold account of each driver for the transition

Poverty Strategies in Asia John Weiss, Haider Khan, 2006-01-01 the volume makes interesting reading The language of the text is indeed lucid and the organization of the materials could not have been better Arup Mitra The Developing Economies This is an important book making a convincing case that structural elements are of crucial importance in filtering the impact of growth on poverty A successful development strategy needs to address these structural elements at the country level and modify them in order to take greater advantage of the potential benefits of globalization in reducing poverty Erik Thorbecke Cornell University US This volume makes an important contribution to our understanding of the complex relationship between economic growth and poverty reduction The focus on assessing the impact of specific poverty reduction interventions at the disaggregated case study level marks an important and welcome departure from the standard approach to research in this area researchers and practitioners working in the field of poverty reduction and development in Asia and beyond will find much to interest them in this stimulating and informative volume Colin Kirkpatrick University of Manchester UK Poverty Strategies in Asia is an examination of a wide range of measures aimed at reducing poverty in the region It is widely recognized that while high and sustained economic growth is critical for poverty reduction there are other policy interventions that may also be significant in a growth plus approach to poverty reduction This volume brings together a series of case studies on the poverty impact of alternative interventions in a broad range of Asian economies The measures examined within the book cover trade liberalization both in general and in a specific market infrastructure investment particularly in roads population policies cash transfers microfinance employment guarantee programs and contract farming The countries covered include the Philippines Lao PDR Pakistan India and Thailand While the results illustrated by the contributors are mixed they demonstrate the potential for further progress in poverty reduction This latest joint publication by the ADBI and Edward Elgar Publishing will be warmly welcomed by scholars and researchers of Asian studies and development Professional economists within international and bilateral development agencies and policymakers will also find much to engage them

Modern Varieties, Productivity, and Sustainability Derek Byerlee, 1994

An African Green Revolution Keijiro Otsuka, Donald F. Larson, 2012-12-22 This volume explores the usefulness of the Asian model of agricultural development for Africa where even before the recent world food crisis half the population lived on less than on dollar a day and a staggering one in three people and one third of all children were undernourished Africa has abundant natural resources agriculture provides most of its jobs a third of national income and a larger portion of total export earnings However the levels of land and labor productivity rank among the worst in the world The book explains Africa s productivity gap and proposes ways to close it by examining recent experience in Africa and by drawing on lessons from Asia Rice Literature Update ,1994 Agrindex ,1995 Proceedings of the International Conference ,2000 Gender Intentional Crop Breeding: From Integration To Institutional Innovation Hale Tufan,Vivian Polar, Jacqueline Ashby,2025-06-02 Significant progress in agricultural technology development has remained persistently blind to social and gender inequalities Creating agricultural research ecosystems and institutions that address gender inequality requires structural and systemic analysis One of the major areas of investment in agricultural innovation is plant breeding Integrating social welfare objectives in plant breeding is a good starting point to catalyze progress towards gender equality objectives in research for development at a global scale yet devoid of structural change these efforts risk falling short of expectations Intentionally addressing gender in plant breeding research can reshape the technical options goals and intended impact of breeding programs Improving the benefits delivered to rural women through plant breeding can be achieved through new methods and learning critically analyzing systematic barriers to equitable plant breeding research and documenting experiences that demonstrate positive change There is a wide diversity of global experiences where gender research has analyzed how gender differences influence needs preferences and potential benefits from crop varieties and crop specific traits Some of these experiences were able to successfully integrate results and learning from gender research into breeding processes and decisions while some have failed to demonstrate concrete actionable results in breeding programs Agricultural Mechanization in Asia, Africa and Latin America ,1995 Agricultural Technology Jock R. Anderson,1994 Major complex problems confront agricultural policy analysts and development specialists regarding the broad issue of agricultural technology These topics are reviewed in this volume which consists of 37 chapters developed from papers presented at a conference held at Airlie House Virginia near Washington DC The authors include leading international authorities from the academic sector World Bank and agricultural research centers The chapters are grouped into six parts The first introductory part is followed by investment as the focus of Part II In Part III a variety of conceptual and practical issues involved in the transfer of agricultural technology is considered Part IV includes discussions of concrete technical matters ranging for example from the general to the specific from plant to animal and from soil management to irrigation engineering Emphasis moves from the specifically technological to wider policy issues in Part V and this latter thrust is carried through into the final summarizing section The Journal of Asian Studies ,1994 Food Security in Asia Wen S. Chern,Colin Andre Carter,Shun-yi Shei,2000 Papers from an April 1998 conference held in Taipei Taiwan analyze the forces affecting the demand for and supply of staple foods in both developed and developing Asian countries Particular attention is paid to the effects of rice production strategies and trade policies on food security Papers discuss the implications of trade liberalization in the ASEAN free trade area and in East Asia on agricultural trade and food security and examine the implications of China s ongoing economic transition on its agricultural trade and its policy on self sufficiency Of interest to scholars of Asian studies agricultural economics and international economics Chern is affiliated with the Department of Agricultural Environmental and Development Economics at the Ohio State University Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR State Market and Development Abu Abdullah, Azizur Rahman Khan, 1996 These Essays Have Been Brought Together In Honour Of The Distinguished Economist Rehman Sobhan Whose Contributions Is A Teacher Researcher Activist And Institiuton Builder Have Impired A Generation Of Economists And Excerted A Grrreat Influence On His Contemporaries World Outlook and State of Food and Agriculture Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 1998
