Moiras Way:

Moiras Way Susan Sullivan Saiter, 1993 The author of the acclaimed Cheerleaders Can't Afford to be Nice writes her second novel combining the sharp irony and genuine warmth that marked her literary debut with a dramatic exploration of familial love and conflict At the heart of Moiras Way is Moira McPherson whose brains and budding sexuality arouse the jealousy and unfulfilled longings of both her parents a boozy father whose once promising athletic career has given way to an endless road trip selling sporting goods and a mother who with murderous wit vents her frustrations on targets from Miss America candidates to her own precocious Moira Completing this tempestuous household is a younger good daughter who yearns too hard to be normal Moira has big dreams far beyond Sioux Falls South Dakota and the way she sets about fulfilling them makes Moiras Way a truly unique reading experience Filled with indelible images of growing up distinguished by a voice that rings true and transports readers beyond the boundaries of the pages Moiras Way confirms Susan Sullivan Saiter's burgeoning reputation as a sparkling new talent BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved

Moiras Crossing Christina Shea, 2000-01-12 An exquisitely wrought debut novel about sisterhood through three generations in Ireland and America It is 1921 in Ireland When their mother dies in childbirth Moira and Julia O Leary are left to rear their infant sister Ann while their father a sheep farmer despairs After Ann dies Moira and Julia depart Cork for Boston but the painful secret behind Ann's death haunts their new lives and presages the confusion that will come to trouble the next generation Moira and Julia have always been strikingly different but theirs is a mercilessly dependable relationship Moira's boldness is fortified by Julia's quiet inner purpose while Julia lives vicariously through her sister's impulsive actions Moira's Crossing charts their shared journey through marriage children and lobstering off the coast of Maine At once an examination of the troubled intimacy of sisterhood and an inquiry into the meaning of faith Moira's Crossing is also a story of what we leave behind and who we become because of it

Writing/Disciplinarity Paul Prior, 2013-11-05 Over the past century the explosive growth of scientific technical and cultural disciplines has profoundly affected our daily lives However processes of enculturation in sites such as graduate education that have helped to form these disciplines have received very limited research attention In those sites graduate students write diverse documents including course papers departmental examinations theses and dissertations grant and fellowship applications and disciplinary publications Thus writing is one of the central domains of enculturation an activity through which graduate students and professors display and negotiate disciplinary knowledge genres identities and institutional contexts This volume explores this intersection of writing and disciplinary enculturation through a series of ethnographic case studies These case studies provide the most thorough descriptions available today of the lived experience of graduate seminars combining analysis of classroom talk students texts and professor's written responses institutional contexts students representations of their writing and its contexts and professors representations of their tasks and their students Given the complexities that the ethnographic data displayed the author found that conventional notions of writing as a process of transcription and of disciplines as unified discourse communities were inadequate As such this book also offers an in depth exploration of sociohistoric theory in relation to writing and disciplinary enculturation Specific case studies introduce apply and further elaborate notions of writing as literate activity authorship as mediated by other people and artifacts classroom tasks as speech genres enculturation as the interplay of authoritative and internally persuasive discourses and disciplinarity as a deeply heterogeneous laminated and dialogic process This blend of research and theory should be of interest to scholars and students in such fields as writing studies rhetoric writing across the curriculum applied linguistics English for academic purposes science and technology studies higher education and the ethnography of communication
