Toward a New Era of Learning: Untangling Our Next Public Education

Wilson Winnitoy, 2015-05-07 What will our next public education system and its schools be like It is a good question but not one unfortunately that is on everyone's mind at least not for now We are too busy trying to fix the system we have too busy to look ahead We do not have to look very far Our next public education system and its new approach to learning is already revealing itself It is visible in the pressures from parents and their ceaseless efforts to influence profoundly the quality of the experience their children have in school It is visible in the creative efforts of many dedicated teachers and school administrators as they surmount day after day the dehumanizing tendencies of large scale mass education This book is a look into the future We must rethink the meaning of the values and beliefs that drove the creation of the public schools over 100 years ago We must translate them into a new kind of learning that responds to the challenges and opportunities of our time and place in history

The Branding of the American Mind Jacob H. Rooksby, 2016-12-01 The first real exposé of how universities have trademarked copyrighted branded and patented everything they do Universities generate an enormous amount of intellectual property including copyrights trademarks patents Internet domain names and even trade secrets Until recently universities often ceded ownership of this property to the faculty member or student who created or discovered it in the course of their research Increasingly though universities have become protective of this property claiming it for their own use and licensing it as a revenue source instead of allowing it to remain in the public sphere Many universities now behave like private corporations suing to protect trademarked sports logos patents and name brands Yet how can private rights accumulation and enforcement further the public interest in higher education What is to be gained and lost as institutions become more guarded and contentious in their orientation toward intellectual property In this pioneering book law professor Jacob H Rooksby uses a mixture of qualitative quantitative and legal research methods to grapple with those central questions exposing and critiquing the industry's unquestioned and growing embrace of intellectual property from the perspective of research in law higher education and the social sciences While knowledge creation and dissemination have a long history in higher education using intellectual property as a vehicle for rights staking and enforcement is a relatively new and as Rooksby argues dangerous phenomenon for the sector The Branding of the American Mind points to higher education's love affair with intellectual property itself in all its dimensions including newer forms that are less tied to scholarly output The result is an unwelcome assault on the public's interest in higher education Presuming no background knowledge of intellectual property and ending with a call to action The Branding of the American Mind explores applicable laws legal regimes and precedent in plain English making the book appealing to anyone concerned for the future of higher education

Schlutz, 2009-06 As the mental faculty that mediates between self and world mind and body the senses and the intellect imagination is indispensable for modern models of subjectivity From Ren Descartes s Meditations to the aesthetic and philosophical systems of the Romantic period to think about the subject necessarily means to address the problem of imagination In close readings of Descartes Kant Fichte Hardenberg Novalis and Coleridge and with a sustained return to the origins of the discourse about imagination in Greek antiquity Alexander Schlutz demonstrates that neither the unity of the subject itself nor the unity of the philosophical systems that are based on it can be conceptualized without recourse to imagination Yet philosophers like Descartes and Kant must deny imagination any such foundational role because of its dangerous connection to the body the senses and the unruly passions which threatens the desired autonomy of the rational subject The modern subject is simultaneously dependent upon and constructed in opposition to imagination and the resulting ambivalence about the faculty is one of the fundamental conditions of modern models of subjectivity
