The Poison Oracle Peter Dickinson, 2013 A sheikh funds a psycholinguist's research into the language abilities of a chimp
A chimp who then witnesses a murder Witchcraft, Oracles, and Magic Among the Azande Edward Evans Evans-Pritchard, 1976 Witchcraft, Oracles, and Magic among the Azande first published in 1977 was based on anthropological researches carried out in the Southern Sudan during the late 1920s For a decade or so the book had little discernable impact but from the early 1950s to present day its influence has grown incalculably so that it is now difficult even to discuss beliefs about witchcraft or sorcery without reference to it This abridgement of E E Evans Pritchard's acknowledged masterpiece is intended to make it more accessible to students and the general reader Divination's Grasp Richard Werbner, 2015-11-15 A work of rare depth and profound insight that is destined to become a classic in African Studies and the anthropology of religion Paul Stoller author of Yaya's Story: The Quest for Well Being in the World Richard Werbner takes readers on a journey through contemporary charismatic wisdom divination in southern Africa Beginning with the silent language of the divinatory lots Werbner deciphers the everyday metaphorical and poetic language that is used to reveal their meaning Through Werbner's skillful interpretations of the language of divination a picture of Tswapong moral imagination is revealed Concerns about dignity and personal illumination witchcraft pollution the anger of dead ancestors as well as the nature of life truth cosmic harmony being and becoming emerge in this charged African setting Werbner's Divination's Grasp documents a long and distinguished career in the service of anthropology It will be a touchstone for anthropological studies of divination for years to come American Ethnologist Richard Werbner's superb account of moral imagination and the poetics of divination grasps the density of its subject matching the insights of the diviner with those of the ethnographer The book takes its place among the very best works of Africanist anthropology as a new classic in the tradition of ethnographic divination and a necessary reminder of live and deep traditions of African wisdom Michael Lambek

Experience of Science I.F. Goldstein, M. Goldstein, 1984-04-30 Our earlier book How We Know: An Exploration of the Scientific Process was written to give some conception of what the scientific approach is like how to recognize it how to distinguish it from other approaches to understanding the world and to give some feeling for the intellectual excitement and aesthetic satisfactions of science These goals represented our concept of the term scientific literacy Though the book was written for the general reader to our surprise and gratification it was also used as a text in about forty colleges and some high schools for courses in science for the non scientist in methodology of science for social and behavioral sciences and in the philosophy of science As a result we were encouraged to write a textbook with essentially the same purpose and basic approach but at a level appropriate to college students We have drawn up problems for those chapters that would benefit from them described laboratory experiments that illustrate important points discussed in the text and made suggestions for additional readings term papers and other projects Throughout the book we have introduced a number of chapters and appendices that provide examples of the uses of quantitative thinking in the sciences logic math ematics probability statistics and graphical representation

The Structure of Social Theory Anthony King,2004 Over the last three decades social theory has become an increasingly important subdiscipline within sociology Social theory has attempted to elucidate the philosophical basis of sociology by defining the nature of social reality According to social theory society consists of objective institutions structure on the one hand and individuals agency on the other it promotes human social relations insisting that in every instance social reality consists of these relations
