Rhythms of Dialogue in Infancy, 2001 Rhythms of Dialogue in Infancy Joseph Jaffe, Beatrice Beebe, Stanley Feldstein, Cynthia L. Crown, Michael D. Jasnow, 2001-07-05 Coordination between infant and adult is thought to be essential to infant development However the study is theoretically and methodologically grounded in a dyadic systems perspective and relational psychoanalysis Our automated apparatus explores the micro second timing of 4 month infant adult vocal coordination to predict 12 month infant attachment and cognition This work also further defines a fundamental dyadic timing matrix that guides the trajectory of infant development Rhythms of Dialogue in Infancy, 2001 Rhythms of Dialogue in Infancy, 2001 Rhythms of Dialogue in Infancy Beatrice Beebe, Stanley Feldstein, Cynthia L. Crown, Michael D. Jasnow, Joseph Jaffe, 2001 Rhythms of Dialogue in Infancy and Attachment Narratives in Childhood Sara Catherine Markese, 2007 Mothers, Infants and Young Children of September 11, 2001 Beatrice Beebe, Phyllis Cohen, K. Mark Sossin, Sara Markese, 2013-09-13 The group of papers presented in this volume represents ten years of involvement of a group of eight core therapists working originally with approximately forty families who suffered the loss of husbands and fathers on September 11 2001 The project focuses on the families of women who were pregnant and widowed in the disaster or of women who were widowed with an infant born in the previous year This book maps the support and services provided without cost to the families by the primary prevention project the September 11 2001 Mothers Infants and Young Children Project organised by a highly trained group of therapists specialising in adult child mother infant and family treatment as well as in nonverbal communication The demands of the crisis led these therapists to expand on their psychoanalytic training fostering new approaches to meeting the needs of these families They sought out these families offering support groups for mothers and their infants and young children in the mothers own neighbourhoods They also brought the families to mother child videotaped play sessions at the New York State Psychiatric Institute at Columbia University followed by video feedback and consultation sessions In 2011 marking the 10th anniversary of the World Trade Center tragedy the Project continues to provide services without cost for these mothers who lost their husbands for their infants who are now approximately ten years old and for the siblings of these children This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Infant Child and Adolescent Psychotherapy Infant Research and Psychoanalysis Beatrice Beebe, Karlen Lyons-Ruth, Colwyn Trevarthen, 2018 This book has the hard task to cover an interdisciplinary area in which psychoanalysis has to deal with infant research The development of infant research methodologies is illustrated in the present book by the contribution written by Beatrice Beebe whose journey leads us through the creating of a discipline with its creators her traveling companions such as Daniel Stern Frank Lachmann Joseph Jaffe and many others Trevarthen s chapter is a discussion of his work with T Berry Brazelton passed away on March 2018 Brazelton used his trust and enjoyment of innocent company to greet a newborn infant as a friend and he showed that the baby is read to share friendship with mother and father giving them joy Brazelton's belief in innate human nature transformed pediatric care and early diagnosis of developmental disorders guiding treatment not of the baby but with him/her as an individual with unique expressions of vitality The last two chapters instead deal with clinical implications of infant research Tronick's contribution focuses on mother-infant dyad as well as on analyst-patient one conceived as open dynamic systems capable of meaning-making in which coherence is at best imperfect and coordination alternates with mismatching In open dynamic systems messiness itself is inherent to the process of meaning-making because of limitations in their capacity their different time scales the many polymorphs of meaning that have to be integrated and because of the many kinds of meaning-making processes including affective cognitive memorial linguistic bodily and psychodynamic meaning-making processes such as a dynamic unconscious projective identification and transference Dyadic states of consciousness Tronick writes in the chapter are joint creations and as such bring together the messy unpredictable and inchoate features of two individuals' state of consciousness not just the messiness of one But meaning-making processes and security-making ones though normally overlapping each other are not the same and this heterogeneity between motivational systems Lichtenberg et al 2011 can cover the heterogeneity of psychopathological conditions Lyons Ruth and colleagues' chapter is focused on the representational world of the mother particularly on the assessment of mother's representation of role confusion in her relation with her child The authors call attention to the dimension of sexualisation in the relationship a high indicator of role confusion This emerging body of work points to the importance of being alert to indicators of role confusion in the clinical setting The findings can inform and enrich counselling and psychology practice by familiarizing clinicians with how to listen for indicators of role confusion while talking with parents about their relationship with the child

Moments of Meeting in Psychoanalysis Susan Lord, 2017-08-09 There are moments of connection between analysts and patients during any therapeutic encounter upon which the therapy can turn Moments of Meeting in Psychoanalysis explores how analysts and therapists can experience these moments of meeting shows how this interaction can become an enlivening and creative process and seeks to recognise how it can change both the analyst and patient in profound and fundamental ways The theory and practice of contemporary psychoanalysis and psychoanalytic psychotherapy has reached an exciting new moment of generous and generative interaction As psychoanalysts become more intersubjective and relational in their work it becomes increasingly critical that they develop approaches that have the capacity to harness and understand powerful moments of meeting capable of propelling change through the therapeutic relationship Often these are surprising human moments in which both client and clinician are moved and transformed Moments of Meeting in Psychoanalysis offers a window into the ways in which some of today's practitioners think about and work with these moments of meeting in their practices Each chapter of the book offers theoretical material case examples and a discussion of various therapists' reflections on and experiences with these moments of meeting With contributions from relational psychoanalysts psychotherapists and Jungian analysts and covering essential topics such as shame impasse mindfulness and group work this book offers new theoretical thinking and practical clinical guidance on how best to work with moments of meeting in any relationally oriented therapeutic practice Moments of Meeting in Psychoanalysis will be of great interest to psychoanalysts psychoanalytic psychotherapists psychologists social workers workers in other mental health fields graduate students and anyone interested in change processes

Autism: The Movement Perspective Elizabeth B Torres, Anne M Donnellan, 2015-05-19 Autism Spectrum Disorders ASD is portrayed as cognitive and social disorders Undoubtedly impairments in communication and restricted repetitive behaviors that now define the disorders have a profound impact on social interactions But can we go beyond the descriptive observational nature of this definition and objectively measure that amalgamate of motions and sensations that we call behavior In this Research Topic we bring movement and its sensation to the forefront of autism research diagnosis and treatment We gather researchers across disciplines with the unifying goal of recognizing movement and sensory disturbances as core symptoms of the disorder We also hear confirmation from the perspective of autism self advocates and parents Those important sources of evidence along with the research presented in this topic demonstrate without a doubt that profound movement and sensory differences do exist in ASD and that they are quantifiable The work presented in this Research Topic shows us that quantifiable differences in movements have a better chance than current observational techniques to help us uncover subtle solutions that the nervous system with autism has already spontaneously self discovered and utilized in daily living Where the naked eye would miss the unique subtleties that help each individual cope instrumentation and fine kinematic analyses of motions help us uncover inherent capacities and predispositions of the person with autism The work presented in this topic helps us better articulate through the voices of parents and self advocates those sensory motor differences that current inventories could not possibly uncover These differences are seldom perceived as they take place at timescales and frequencies that fall largely beneath our conscious awareness To the person in the spectrum living with this disorder and to the caregiver creating accommodations to help the affected loved one these subtleties are very familiar though Indeed they are often used in clever ways to facilitate daily routines We have waited much too long in science to listen to the very people that we are trying to define understand and help Being autism a social problem by definition it is remarkable that not a single diagnosis inventory measures the dyadic social interaction that takes place between the examiner and the examinees Indeed we have conceived the autistic person within a social context where we are incapable by definition of accepting those differences The burden is rather placed on the affected person to whom much too often we refer to in the third person as non verbal without intentionality without empathy or emotions without a theory of mind among other purely psychological guesses It is then too easy and shockingly allowed to reshape that person to mold that person to better conform to our social expectations and to extinguish behaviors that are socially unacceptable even through the use of aversive punishing reinforcement techniques if need be And yet none of those techniques have had a single shred of objective scientific evidence of their effectiveness We have not objectively measured once nor have we physiologically characterized once any of those perceived features that we so often use to observationally define what we may think the autistic phenotype may be We have not properly quantified beyond paper and pencil methods the effectiveness of interventions in autism Let us not forget when we do our science that we are all part of the broad human spectrum
