Ecological Planning Forster Ndubisi,2003-04-30 Chosen by Choice Magazine as an Outstanding Academic Title for 2003 Ecological planning is the process of understanding evaluating and providing options for the use of landscape to ensure a better fit with human habitation In this ambitious analysis Forster Ndubisi provides a succinct historical and comparative account of the various approaches to this process He then reveals how each of these approaches offers different and uniquely useful perspectives for understanding the dialogue between human and environmental processes Ndubisi begins by examining the philosophies behind and major contributors to ecological thinking during the past 150 years as well as the paradigm shift in planning that occurred in recent decades as a result of a growing global ecological awareness He then turns to landscape suitability analysis and discusses alternative approaches to ecological planning such as applied human ecology applied landscape ecology and others Finally he offers a comparative synthesis of the approaches in order to reveal the theoretical and methodological assumptions inherent when planners choose one approach over the other Ndubisi concludes that no one approach can by itself adequately address the whole spectrum of ecological planning issues For this reason he offers guidance as to when it may be appropriate for landscape architects and planners to emphasize one approach rather than another

Architecture ,1993 Urban Squares as Places, Links and Displays Jon Lang,Nancy Marshall,2016-07-15 To attract investment and tourists and to enhance the quality of life of their citizens municipal authorities are paying considerable attention to the quality of the public domain of their cities including their urban squares Politicians find them good places for rallies Children consider squares to be playgrounds the elderly as places to catch up with each other and for many others squares are simply a place to pause for a moment Urban Squares as Places Links and Displays Successes and Failures discusses how people experience squares and the nature of the people who use them It presents a typology of squares based on the dimensions of ownership the square s instrumental functions and a series of their basic physical attributes including size degree of enclosure configuration and organization of the space within them and finally based on their aesthetic attributes their meanings Twenty case studies illustrate what works and what does not work in different cities around the world It discusses the qualities of lively squares and quieter more restorative places as well as what contributes to making urban squares less desirable as destinations for the general public The book closes with the policy implications stressing the importance and difficulties of designing good public places Urban Squares offers how to guidance along with a strong theoretical framework making it ideal for architects city planners and landscape architects working on the design and upgrade of squares Landscape Architecture ,1999
