of African American children's picturebooks from the mid nineteenth century to the present. At the turn of the nineteenth century good children's books about black life were hard to find if indeed young black readers and their parents could even gain entry into the bookstores and libraries. But today in the Golden Age of African American children's picturebooks one can find a wealth of titles ranging from Happy to be Nappy to Black is Brown is Tan. In this book Michelle Martin explores how the genre has evolved from problematic early works such as Epaminondas that were rooted in minstrelsy and stereotype through the civil rights movement and onward to contemporary celebrations of blackness. She demonstrates the cultural importance of contemporary favorites through keen historical analysis scrutinizing the longevity and proliferation of the Coontown series and Ten Little Niggers books for example that makes clear how few picturebooks existed in which black children could see themselves and their people positively represented even up until the 1960s. Martin also explores how children's authors and illustrators have addressed major issues in black life and history including racism the civil rights movement black feminism major historical figures religion and slavery. Brown Gold adds new depth to the reader's understanding of African American literature and culture and illuminates how the round dynamic characters in these children's novels novellas and picturebooks can put a face on the past a face with which many contemporary readers can identify.

Developing Multicultural Awareness Through Children's Literature Patricia Roberts, Nancy Lee Cecil, 1993 Children develop their feelings toward other cultures and individuals largely through the ideas presented to them by parents and teachers. One good way is to show them respectable and accurately portrayed literary characters from many U.S. cultures. Over 200 selections from children's literature with plot and character synopses feature Americans who can serve as role models in overcoming cultural stereotypes. Target activities role playing writing assignments etc reinforce the multicultural concepts. The selections are divided into five areas African American Asian American European American Latino American and Native American.
