Monographs on Topics of Modern Mathematics (Classic Reprint) J. Young,President International Association of Cancer Registries J Young,2016-11-29 Excerpt from Monographs on Topics of Modern Mathematics Among the various publications on mathematics that are being made it would seem that there is room for a serious effort to bring within reach of secondary teachers in service or in training college students and others at a like stage of mathematical advancement a scientific treatment of some of the regions of advanced mathematics that have points of contact with the elementary field Undoubtedly one of the most crying needs of our secondary instruction in mathematics to day is that the scientific attainments of the teachers be enlarged and their mathematical horizon widened and I believe that there is a large body of earnest teachers and students that are eager to extend their mathematical knowledge if the path can be made plain and feasible for them A volume of monographs dealing with selected topics of higher mathematics might well be a useful contribution to the meeting of this need Such monographs would aim to bring the reader into touch with some characteristic results and viewpoints of the topics considered and to point out their bearing on elementary mathematics They
