It is commonplace that to understand a poet we need some knowledge of his time and place. His mind will take colour from his surroundings by sympathy or antipathy. He will share at least some of the limitations of his age and generation while in common with his contemporaries he belongs to a stage of moral and intellectual development in advance of his predecessors. At the same time it must be remembered that a great poet will generally also be in advance of his contemporaries in the fullness with which he realizes the life of his day with its problems and its solutions of those problems and he will represent in some measure whether he means it or not the standpoint of a later age.
