Wager and Win Al Price,1956 The Racing Game Marvin B. Scott, This study of a unique social world probes beneath the thrill and spectacle of horse racing into the lives of the honest boys the gyps the manipulators the stoops and the Chalk eaters the constituents of race track society and the players of the racing game With scientific precision and journalistic vigor Scott describes the everyday activities the objectives and strategies of those whose lives are organized around track proceedings and who compete with chance and one another The players in the racing game range from track owners to stable boys from law enforcers to lawbreakers and from casual sportsmen to pathologically addicted gamblers Considering the self interests the normative and operational codes and the interactional relationships among the major types and subtypes of participants the author defines the components of strategic movement within the framework of rules and resources to show how a player s relations to the means of production governs his behavior The fruitful application of sociological theory and method to an unusually interesting social context makes this particularly useful still for courses in social problems and the sociology of organizations and of leisure when he was teaching at Berkeley Goffman asked me to come to his seminar to hear a student Marvin Scott present his research on horse racing in the course of his presentation Scott suggested in passing that gamblers including horse players sometimes had winning streaks or losing streaks Goffman who had been listening appreciatively until that point interrupted to say that of course Scott meant that they thought they had such streaks of good or bad luck But Scott said no these were observable facts Goffman unwilling to accept such supernatural talk persisted appealing to the laws of probability to assure Scott that such streaks were natural occurrences in any long run of tries in such a game as blackjack or craps Howard Becker Marvin B Scott retired in 2001 as professor of sociology at Hunter College City University of New York He previously taught at San Francisco State College and received his Ph D in 1966 at the University of California Berkeley Jaime Suchlicki is Bacardi Professor of History at the Graduate School of International Studies at the University of Miami and executive director of its Cuban American and Cuban Center
