Process And Thought In Composition Frank J Dangelo:

Process and Thought in Composition Frank J. D'Angelo, 1985 Encyclopedia of Rhetoric and Composition Theresa Enos, 2013-10-08 First Published in 1996 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Conceding Composition Ryan Skinnell, 2016-09-01 First year composition became the most common course in American higher education not because it could fix underprepared student writers but because it has historically served significant institutional interests That is it can be conceded in multiple ways to help institutions solve political promotional and financial problems Conceding Composition is a wide ranging historical examination of composition s evolving institutional value in American higher education over the course of nearly a century Based on extensive archival research conducted at six American universities and using the specific cases of institutional mission regional accreditation and federal funding this study demonstrates that administrators and faculty have introduced reformed maintained threatened or eliminated composition as part of negotiations related to nondisciplinary institutional exigencies Viewing composition from this perspective author Ryan Skinnell raises new questions about why composition exists in the university how it exists and how teachers and scholars might productively reconceive first year composition in light of its institutional functions The book considers the rhetorical political organizational institutional and promotional options conceding composition opened up for institutions of higher education and considers what the first year course and the discipline might look like with composition s transience reimaged not as a barrier but as a consummate institutional value Rhetoric and Composition Richard Layton Graves, 1984 Cross-talk in Comp Theory Victor Villanueva, 2003 Berthoff Narrowing the Mind and Page Remedial Writers and Cognitive Reductionism Mike Rose Cognition Convention and Certainty What We Need to Know about Writing Patricia Bizzell Under Section Four Talking about Writing in Society are these essays Collaborative Learning and the Conversation of Mankind Kenneth A Bruffee Reality Consensus and Reform in the Rhetoric of Composition Teaching Greg Myers Consensus and Difference in Collaborative Learning John Trimbur Contact Zones and English Studies Patricia Bizzell Professing Multiculturalism The Politics of Style in the Contact Zone Min Zhan Lu Under Section Five Talking about Selves and Schools On Voice Voices and Other Voices are these essays Democracy Pedagogy and the Personal Essay Joel Haefner Beyond the Personal Theorizing a Politics of Location in Composition Research Gesa E Kirsch and Joy S Learning from the Histories of Rhetoric Theresa Enos, 1993 This collection of eleven essays honors Winifred Bryan Horner for her sustained effort to establish that the special nature of rhetoric and composition leads the discipline to theorize practice and to apply theory as its central acts Theresa Enos urges those in the field to learn from the histories of rhetoric in order to draw rhetoric and composition together and to understand theory in practice and the practice of theory as conceptualized by Aristotle Rhetoric the oldest of the humanities has practice as its very basis but English faculty who teach history of rhetoric courses often think that studying rhetorical history for its own sake is enough In addition the typical history course taught in English

departments is nearly identical to the traditional ones that have been taught in speech and communication departments for three quarters of a century Enos believes that using the infrastructure of courses taught in speech does not meet the needs of teachers of written communication Learning from the Histories of Rhetoric is based on the problems Enos has perceived when history has not been connected to teaching learning using Her goal is both to honor Winifred Horner who has spent her career in trying to make usable connections between rhetoric and composition and to feature well known historians of rhetoric who can translate what they have learned about the history of rhetoric into the writing classroom As future teachers of writing take courses in history as part of core curricula Enos believes this volume can be a concise complement to the thousands of pages of history and theory they will be reading that it can be a resource guide that will generate and enrich discussion further suggestions for teaching and heighten awareness of the uses of history for writing teachers Enos has organized the essays into two parts Studying the Histories of Rhetoric and Teaching the Histories of Rhetoric Richard Lloyd Jones begins part 1 by interweaving personal and professional history as a pedagogue who consciously and explicitly uses the history of rhetoric Thomas P Miller makes a strong argument for broadening our knowledge of rhetorical traditions and deepening our perceptions of what they can mean to teaching Donald C Stewart suggests how we might reach into our history to find a philosophical model for present day college rhetoric and composition programs And Edward P J Corbett charts the history closest to teachers and administrators in writing programs In part 2 Susan C Jarratt concentrates on Sappho to demonstrate that women s ways of thinking and writing can differ from men s Marjorie Curry Woods shows that writing pedagogy from medieval times can be useful to current classroom strategies Both Jean Dietz Moss and Kathleen E Welch focus on dialectic Moss showing how closely dialectic and rhetoric worked together in the Renaissance and Welch continuing the argument for including dialectic in college writing courses Richard Leo Enos and S Michael Halloran delineate strong relationships between classical rhetoric and two present day approaches to writing peer collaboration and declamation

Linguistics, Stylistics, and the Teaching of Composition Donald McQuade, 1979 Theorizing Composition Mary Kennedy, 1998-06-25 The last 25 years have witnessed extraordinary growth in the academic specialization variously described as composition studies or rhetoric and composition What was noticeable about the field in its infancy was a preoccupation with practice a lack of emphasis on theory and an exclusive reliance on the writing process As its disciplinary status has grown the field has become far more theoretical Composition studies has expanded its focus reconceptualized the writing process and embraced a wide range of critical perspectives The result of this change is that terms such as poststructuralism social construction gender and genre which were largely unknown in 1965 now dominate discussion This reference book is a guide to the multiplicity of theories that have emerged to form the disciplinary foundation of composition studies The volume consists of 66 entries each of which is written by an expert contributor and focuses on a particular theory or group of theories While the entries show how various individuals have contributed to theoretical movements very few concentrate on the work of a single theorist Each entry first provides a critical summary of a particular theory or group of theories including key elements basic concepts and claims and information about seminal or particularly influential works It then reviews the theory s critical reception in composition studies and discusses its significance in the field The bibliography at the end of each entry lists primary texts and major scholarship related to the theory and provides additional suggestions for further reading The volume closes with a selected bibliography of important works

Normative Discourse and Persuasion Michael R. Walrod,1988 A study of the discourse of Ga dang a Philippine language focuses on normative discourse and persuasion especially the ways in which the former is used to accomplish the latter The first five chapters outline the theoretical framework of the study placing normative and persuasive discourse in a philosophical context and relating them to the fields of cognitive science to neuropsychology and to the study of the consequences of literacy to provide an explanation for the substantial differences between Ga dang normative discourse and that of Western society The conciliatory nature of dispute settlement in Ga dang is examined in relation to the sociology or ethnology of law and social control The normative discourse of dispute settlement is seen as intended to produce group harmony and consensus Subsequent chapters narrow the focus on normative discourse to those elements central to discourse analysis and particularly to a distinct type of normative discourse in Ga dang informal litigation The textual characteristics of a substantial portion of one litigation appended are identified and the strategies of persuasion used are discussed A scale of normativity is used to rank the features of Ga dang normative discourse and the results are analyzed
