Professing The New Rhetorics A Sourcebook:

Professing the New Rhetorics Theresa Enos, Stuart Cameron Brown, 1994 A Blair Press Book A collection of key texts in twentieth century rhetoric The first section contains important theoretical readings from the founders of modern rhetoric the second section provides influential commentaries on modern rhetorical theory Renewing Rhetoric's Relation to

Composition Shane Borrowman, Stuart Brown, Thomas Miller, 2010-02-25 Examining the development of rhetoric and composition using the writings of Theresa Jarnagin Enos as a basis for studies of broader trends this book explores topics including the historical relations of rhetoric and composition their evolution within programs of study and Enos's research on gender The SAGE Handbook of Public Relations Robert L. Heath, 2010-07-29 An unparalleled guide to the theory and practice of public relations Reflecting advances in theory research and application in the discipline since the publication of the Handbook of Public Relations in 2001 this new volume is global in scope and unmatched in its coverage of both academic research and professional best practice Key Features Presents major theories in the words of the leading advocates for each theory Covers the full range of theory research and practice in the discipline Positions public relations as a positive force to help make society more fully functional Challenges academics and practitioners to identify best practices that can inform the work of those in the profession

Contrastive Rhetoric Ulla Connor, Ed Nagelhout, William Rozycki, 2008-01-09 This volume explores contrastive rhetoric for audiences in both ESL contexts and international EFL contexts exposing the newest developments in theories of culture and discourse and pushing the boundaries beyond any previously staked ground The book presents a comprehensive set of empirical investigations involving a number of first languages 13 of the 17 authors are English as a second language speakers many working in non US contexts This work develops a coherent agenda for contrastive rhetoric researchers studying genres such as school writing grant proposals business letters newspaper editorials book reviews and newspaper commentaries Four chapters provide ethnographies and observations about contrastive rhetoric and the teaching of EFL and ESL The book ends with a look to the future suggesting it is more accurate to use the term intercultural rhetoric to account for the richness of rhetoric variation of written texts and the varying contexts in which they are constructed

Contemporary Composition Studies Edith Babin, Kimberly Harrison, 1999-12-30 Composition studies is a rapidly growing and constantly changing field At present however graduate students new to the field and writing teachers who want to make new connections between theory and practice have little choice of current reference works that define key terms in composition studies and provide information about the scholars and researchers who have shaped and are shaping the discipline This book supplies this information in an easily accessible format and places both scholars and terms in the context of the field's development Included are alphabetically arranged entries for 108 individuals who have developed the field and 128 terms central to the discipline The first part of the book provides entries for leaders in composition studies Each entry identifies the areas in which the scholar has contributed most influentially to the field and provides both a chronological overview of the person's contributions and a bibliography of representative works. The second part includes entries for terms that are problematic both for newcomers and for those already familiar with the discipline. The entries for the terms show how the disciplinary context has shaped the ways in which they have been used. The entries also indicate how established thinkers in composition studies and other disciplines have explained or defined the terms, provide examples of the terms in context, and list scholars often associated with them. An appendix includes entries for scholars from other disciplines who have contributed to the field.

Who Says? William DeGenaro, 2007-01-21. In Who Says, scholars of rhetoric, composition, and communications seek to revise the elitist rhetorical tradition by analyzing diverse topics such as settlement house movements and hip hop culture to uncover how communities use discourse to construct working class identity. The contributors examine the language of workers at a concrete pour, depictions of long haul truckers, a comic book series published by the CIO, the transgressive fat bodies of Roseanne and Anna Nicole Smith, and even reality television to provide rich insights into working class rhetorics. The chapters identify working class tropes and discursive strategies and connect working class identity to issues of race, gender, and sexuality. Using a variety of approaches including ethnography, research in historic archives, and analysis of case studies, Who Says assembles an original and comprehensive collection that is accessible to both students and scholars of class studies and rhetoric.

Readings in Contemporary Rhetoric Karen A. Foss, 2002.

Theorizing Composition Mary Kennedy, 1998-06-25. The last 25 years have witnessed extraordinary growth in the academic specialization variously described as composition studies or rhetoric and composition. What was noticeable about the field in its infancy was a preoccupation with practice, a lack of emphasis on theory, and an exclusive reliance on the writing process. As its disciplinary status has grown, the field has become far more theoretical. Composition studies has expanded its focus, reconceptualized the writing process, and embraced a wide range of critical perspectives. The result of this change is that terms such as poststructuralism, social construction, gender, and genre, which were largely unknown in 1965, now dominate discussion. This reference book is a guide to the multiplicity of theories that have emerged to form the disciplinary foundation of composition studies. The volume consists of 66 entries, each of which is written by an expert contributor and focuses on a particular theory or group of theories. While the entries show how various individuals have contributed to theoretical movements, very few concentrate on the work of a single theorist. Each entry first provides a critical summary of a particular theory or group of theories, including key elements, basic concepts, and claims, and information about seminal or particularly influential works. It then reviews the theory's critical reception in composition studies and discusses its significance in the field. The bibliography at the end of each entry lists primary texts and major scholarship related to the theory and provides additional suggestions for further reading. The volume closes with a selected bibliography of important works.

The International Encyclopedia of Communication: Rhetoric in Western Europe: France-Structuration theory Wolfgang Donsbach, 2008. Collection of 1,339 original entries spanning the scholarship, evidence, and methodology of communication research Coverage of theories media and communication phenomena research methods problems concepts and geographical areas in this interdisciplinary field Editorial areas include communication theory and philosophy interpersonal communication journalism intercultural and intergroup communication media effects strategic communication PR communication and media law and policy media systems in the world and communication and technology Selected Writings of Richard McKeon: Culture, education and the arts Richard Peter McKeon,1998 Contemporary Perspectives on Rhetoric Sonja K. Foss,Karen A. Foss,Robert Trapp,2002 Thorough in scope and highly accessible this volume introduces the reader to the thinkers who have exerted a profound influence on contemporary rhetorical theory The brief biographical sketches locate the theorists in time and place showing how life experiences influenced perspectives on rhetorical thought The concise explanations of complex concepts are clear and provide readers with a solid foundation for reading the major works of these scholars The critical commentary is carefully chosen to place the theories within a broader rhetorical context Each chapter ends with a complete bibliography of works by the theorists Previous editions have been praised as indispensable the Third Edition is equally essential Rhetoric and Ethnicity Keith Gilyard,Vorris Nunley,2004 The essays in this volume open up vigorous debate about alternative discourses and modes of presentation CCCC Bibliography of Composition and Rhetoric 1994 Gail E. Hawisher,Cynthia L. Selfe,1996-09 This volume lists and annotates more than two thousand articles books dissertations and papers that with few exceptions appeared in 1994 It includes an index of authors and editors a subject index and entries cross referenced according to subject matter The 1994 Bibliography looks dramatically different from the Bibliography Erika Lindemann founded more than ten years ago Many more titles now relate to fields not represented in early editions Although composition and rhetoric has always borrowed methods of investigation from other disciplines areas such as critical theory science studies feminist theory technology studies and postmodern theory were much less a part of the discipline a decade ago These fields are well represented this year This volume like the 1993 Bibliography also differs from early editions in that it contains a section on electronic discussion groups or listservs including information on how readers may join the various groups Yet the mission and goals of the Bibliography remain the same to ensure that it is sufficiently comprehensive that it can continue to function as a major bibliographical resource available to scholars and teachers in rhetoric composition communication and literary education As usual the CCCC Bibliography of Composition and Rhetoric draws on a large group of experts in the field Annotations which accompany every entry in this volume describe a publication s contents and are intended to help users determine the entry s usefulness Annotations are brief and are meant to be descriptive not evaluative they explain what an entry is about but leave readers free to judge for themselves the work s merits The CCCC Bibliography of Composition and Rhetoric remains a critical bibliographical resource one that reflects and respects the variety of scholarship in composition studies and that exerts a constructive productive influence on the composition and rhetoric community A Way to Move Dale Jacobs,Laura R.
