Revolution and Consequence

-The French revolution of 1789 was specifically modelled on the American experience, and leaders from America such as Thomas Jefferson and Thomas Paine, the journalist, were actually invited to join the French revolutionary assembly.

-The Russian revolution of 1917 also comes to mind. A fine American historian, Rowland Bainton, who studied these violent, emotional upheavals, concluded that they had a pattern.

- The French and Russian revolutions went through quick phases in which the originators were not in control at the end.

- The goals change as revolutions succeed. In France and Russia the revolutions tended towards greater violence before ending in dictatorships.

-Even in America there were great social consequences, such as freedom of religion, that were totally unanticipated at the beginning of the revolt for independence. Revolutions, then, can be like a door that opens the way to great changes, both good and bad.

-Once the traditional cords of custom and law are challenged, new ideas and demands come to the forefront. In the American Revolution wigs and buckled shoes, silk trousers were left behind. Jefferson wore a soiled smoking jacket as he greeted guests at the door of the new Whitehouse in Washington.

- So out of Lexington and Concord came a new experiment that people all over the world came to study as if it were a new species under a microscope. Laws, customs, appetites changed in America as pent up thoughts and dreams came to be expressed.

-In April, 1775, General Gage in Boston sent his troops to seize an arms cache assembled by the legislature of Massachusetts which had been officially prorogued or forbidden to meet.

-The militia were armed with rifles, long guns with bored, "rifled," barrels that were accurate up to several hundred yards.
