

You probably know that a diary is a place where you keep a daily record of the things you do and think and feel. Below, can you guess what a Food Chain Diary is? It's a place where, first, you keep track of what you eat for breakfast, lunch, snack, and supper. And then it's where you note how many food chains you belong to based on what you eat.

So, for example, if I eat a carrot for a snack, I think about where the carrot comes from. I know that the carrot comes from a carrot plant and that the carrot plant grows underground. I also know that the sun provides the plant with the energy it needs to grow. I am (of course) at the top of the food chain and the carrot plant is at the bottom.

Use your diary to keep track of what you eat. We have drawn food chains for some popular foods. You can follow these and color them in. You can also think about and draw pictures to show the food chains of other foods. This will give you an understanding of how you are connected to the animals and plants that you eat.

As you eat your way through a day, see how many food chains you belong to! When you're done, you will have a Food Chain Diary that is special and unique, just like you.
