The State of Food Security and Nutrition in the World

2019 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, International Fund for Agricultural Development, World Food Programme, World Health Organization, United Nations Children's Fund, 2019-07-15 This year's report presents evidence that the absolute number of people who suffer from hunger continues to slowly increase. The report also highlights that food insecurity is more than just hunger. For the first time the report provides evidence that many people in the world even if not hungry experience moderate food insecurity as they face uncertainties about their ability to obtain food and are forced to compromise on the quality and or quantity of the food they consume. This phenomenon is observed globally not only in low and middle income countries but also in high income countries. The report also shows that the world is not on track to meet global nutrition targets including those on low birthweight and on reducing stunting among children under five years. Moreover, overweight and obesity continue to increase in all regions particularly among school age children and adults. The report stresses that no region is exempt from the epidemic of overweight and obesity underscoring the necessity of multifaceted multisectoral approaches to halt and reverse these worrying trends. In light of the fragile state of the world economy the report presents new evidence confirming that hunger has been on the rise for many countries where the economy has slowed down or contracted. Unpacking the links between economic slowdowns and downturns and food insecurity and malnutrition the report contends that the effects of the former on the latter can only be offset by addressing the root causes of hunger and malnutrition: poverty, inequality and marginalization.

The Right to a Human Minimum Stephen Onyango Ouma, 2025-08-02 This book provides a profound exploration of the concept of a human minimum as articulated by the renowned African philosopher H Odera Oruka. It delves into the pressing issue of global inequality and examines how basic rights such as access to food, shelter, education and healthcare are fundamental to human dignity and should be accessible to all regardless of socioeconomic status. In a world where the gap between the rich and the poor continues to widen, Oruka's philosophical framework is a blueprint for addressing this divide. Through a critical analysis of Oruka's work, this book presents the philosophy of a human minimum and describes why basic rights are essential to ensuring justice, equity and sustainable development. It contextualizes these ideas within contemporary challenges including poverty, unemployment and the global disparities exacerbated by economic systems that favor wealth accumulation by the few. This exploration pushes beyond abstract theory offering practical insights into policy solutions and societal structures that can uphold the dignity of every individual. It argues that achieving this requires not only ethical responsibility but systemic change in political and economic structures. By rethinking development, governance and social justice through the lens of Oruka's philosophy, the book presents a compelling case for policies and actions that guarantee the human minimum for all. This book is of interest to scholars of philosophy, social justice advocates, policymakers and anyone committed to addressing global inequality. It provides a roadmap for how societies can move toward a more equitable future.
