

RECONSTRUCTION.

PETER COOPER TO PRESIDENT JOHNSON.

[The annexed letter of Peter Cooper, Esq., to President Johnson, appearing to several loyal men to convey faithful and wholesome counsel to the Chief Magistrate, is reprinted in the present form, in the hope that it may be extensively circulated and read in all sections of the country. Although a considerable time has elapsed since its original publication, it is just as pertinent and timely as when it was first printed.]

Andrew Johnson, President of the United States.

MY DEAR SIR:—It has been with heartfelt sorrow that I have witnessed the conflict of opinion that has unfortunately prevailed between yourself and the Congress of the United States, in relation to matters believed to be vital to the welfare of our common country.

Such differences of opinion, when honestly entertained (and sometimes violently contended for), show the reason why charity is the greatest of all virtues, because the exercise of charity is so constantly required to enable us to bear with the weaknesses and imperfections of each other.

There is, I believe, no better way to reconcile differences of opinion than to get a full understanding of the causes out of which such misunderstandings originate.

To do this effectually, it is necessary to begin by admitting the fact that all effects, physical, moral, and political, are the result of causes that are equal to their production.

A little reflection on the almost almighty power that the circumstances of birth, education, climate and country have exerted to form and fix erroneous opinions that often led men, like Paul of old, to believe that they are doing God service when they are hailing men, women and children to prison and to death. Reflection on these facts will show how very wise it is for those who have never made a mistake to send the first stone at those who honestly entertain opinions different from their own.

It has always been to me a source of sorrow and regret to hear of men in Congress, or in any other department of government, who destroy their influence for good by calling each other hard names, which never better the condition of themselves or their country.

I am sure if Mr. Sumner could have been born of your parents, and subjected to all the circumstances and conditions that have fallen to your lot through life, he would then have been the man that would have declared the many patriotic truths that have been proclaimed by yourself.

And if you could have been born and subjected to all the conditions that have made Mr. Sumner what he is, you would then have been exerting, as he has done, all the powers of a mighty
