Private Actors and Security Governance Alan Bryden, Marina Caparini, 2006 The privatization of security understood as both the top down decision to outsource military and security related tasks to private firms and the bottom up activities of armed non state actors such as rebel opposition groups insurgents militias and warlord factions has implications for the state s monopoly on the legitimate use of force Both top down and bottom up privatization have significant consequences for effective democratically accountable security sector governance as well as on opportunities for security sector reform across a range of different reform contexts This volume situates security privatization within a broader policy framework considers several relevant national and regional contexts and analyzes different modes of regulation and control relating to a phenomenon with deep historical roots but also strong links to more recent trends of globalization and transnationalization Alan Bryden is deputy head of research at the Geneva Centre for the Democratic Control of Armed Forces DCAF Marina

Krotov, 2012-12-06 This last century of the second millennium has compressed human history to such an extent that whole ages of engineering economics social politics and the humanities have been accommodated in decades or even years Mankind has matured and applied its cognitive and creative genes to advance science and to internationalise future goals including the vital goal of sustainable social development However having no control over the new pace of history twentieth century civilisation has faced global cataclysms of a frequency and depth unprecedented and inconceivable in the past millennia Among the recent crises to be resolved in the third millennium is disintegration of the Soviet Union the biggest state and third largest population in the world Regretfully the pace of change in the Soviet Union had been slower than the rates of reform elsewhere Attempts at economic redecorating instead of radical market oriented reforms failed In Soviet society general discontent with the progress of perestroika in the 1980s provoked the child complacency syndrome that is typical of a young mind contemptuous of any adult action it is convinced that things could have been done much better and much quicker With the new millennium approaching the Soviet Union gave way to 15 new states ridden with both inherited and acquired economic political and social maladies It is common knowledge however that childhood epidemics are short lived The Agrarian Economies of Central and Eastern Europe and the Commonwealth of Independent States Csaba Csáki, John D.
