Procedures Metaphysics:

Procedures and Metaphysics Edward W. Strong, 1966      Process Metaphysics Nicholas Rescher, 1996-01-01
Presents a synoptic compact and accessible exposition of this influential and interesting sector of twentieth century American philosophy      Procedures and Metaphysics Edward William Strong, 1971      Procedures and Metaphysics Edward W. Strong, 1936      Procedures and Metaphysics, a Study in the Philosophy of Mathematical-physical Science in the 16th and 17th Centuries, by Edward W. Strong. Submitted in Partial Fulfillment of the Requirements for the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy... Edward William Strong, 1936      The method of science and its application to metaphysics. The rules of philosophising. Psychological principles. The limitations of knowledge George Henry Lewes, 1874      Elements of Metaphysics Alfred Edward Taylor, 1920      Actology Malcolm Torry, 2020-07-08 Two streams run through the Western philosophical stream one characterized by Being beings the unchanging the static and the unitary and the other by Action actions the changing the dynamic and the diverse The former might be represented by Parmenides Plato and much of what followed the latter by Heraclitus and by rather less of what followed The book explores the Action stream as it wound its way through history through Heraclitus Plato Aristotle Hegel Maurice Blondel Henri Bergson Pierre Teilhard de Chardin process philosophy and theology Geoffrey Studdert Kennedy Ludwig Wittgenstein and John Boys Smith The journey enables us to create the beginnings of an actology a way of seeing ourselves the universe and God in terms of actions in patterns rather than as beings that change Such an actology offers a complete alternative narrative far more in tune with the diverse and rapidly changing world in which we live than the ontology that has shaped philosophy theology and much else for the past two thousand years      An Exploration of the Parallels between African and Process Metaphysics Emmanuel Ofuasia, 2026-01-01 This book articulates how African metaphysics characterized by force and process metaphysics characterized by becoming are similar on several fronts On the one hand the vitalist and relational characters of African metaphysics have engrossed researchers as unique and original to Africa but they have yet to articulate where this leads processism On the other hand the becoming or event underpinning of process metaphysics which has been the focus of Anglo American processism has not courted deserving academic attention due chiefly to the influence wielded by substance metaphysics This is the primary research gap which the present book magnifies and then addresses while contending for intellectual exchange s among specialists in processism irrespective of the philosophic tradition To accomplish this this book admits intercultural philosophy for assessing the principal claims of some African and process philosophers and to bring them into a conversation with an alternative system of logic in Ezumezu to mediate thought theory and method This effort assists in addressing the history of misrepresentation and distortion which process metaphysics as an under explored tradition has suffered and endured      Introduction to the Theory of Science and Metaphysics Alois Riehl, 1894
Metaphysics, Phenomenology, and African Philosophy Jim Unah, 1996      Individuation, Process, and Scientific Practices

Otávio Bueno, Ruey-Lin Chen, Melinda Bonnie Fagan, 2018-10-19 What things count as individuals and how do we individuate them It is a classic philosophical question often tackled from the perspective of analytic metaphysics This volume proposes that there is another channel by which to approach individuation from that of scientific practices From this perspective the question then becomes How do scientists individuate things and therefore count them as individuals This volume collects the work of philosophers of science to engage with this central philosophical conundrum from a new angle highlighting the crucial topic of experimental individuation and building upon recent pioneering work in the philosophy of science An introductory chapter foregrounds the problem of individuation arguing it should be considered prior to the topic of individuality The following chapters address individuation and individuality from a variety of perspectives with prominent themes being the importance of experimentation individuation as a process and pluralism in individuation's criteria Contributions examine individuation in a wide range of sciences including stem cell biology particle physics and community ecology Other chapters examine the metaphysics of individuation its bearing on realism antirealism debates and interrogate epistemic aspects of individuation in scientific practice In exploring individuation from the philosophy of biology physics and other scientific subjects this volume ultimately argues for the possibility of several criteria of individuation upending the tenets of traditional metaphysics It provides insights for philosophers of science but also for scientists interested in the conceptual foundations of their work

Procedures and metaphysics Edward W. Strong, 1966 Mind, Metaphysics and Logic Andrew Ingraham, 1913 Institutes of Metaphysics James Frederick Ferrier, 1875 Reimagining Peace through Process Philosophy Juliet Bennett, 2025-03-07 This book explores the ways in which process philosophers extend and strengthen peace scholars outlines of a paradigm of for peace It then illustrates the value of such a peace paradigm through the example of the climate breakdown showing how process thinking and process metaphysics intervene at the roots of a global systemic crisis In doing so it articulates a new inroad to process philosophy and illuminates an integrative intervention in the systemic crises of climate change and global inequality The static process framework developed in this book makes the philosophy of Alfred North Whitehead and the fields he has inspired easier to grasp and offers a tool to assist in the application of process thought to a multitude of issues This framework depicts tensions between two modes of thought static and process thinking according to five basic orientations abstract context closed open isolating relational passive generative one multi dimensional This pattern is mapped across the domains of metaphysics economics politics and as the basis for a new mode of living and organising across multiple layers of society

Outlines of Metaphysics Hermann Lotze, 1904 Lectures on Metaphysics and Logic Sir William Hamilton, 1874 Aristotle's Metaphysics Aristotle, William David Ross, 1924 The Whole Person Mark H. Bickhard, 2024-11-27 The Whole Person explores the realms of theory and philosophy concerning minds and persons This book presents models of the emergent realization of multiple mental processes and of the constitution of social realities and social persons Each chapter explores prevalent theoretical and philosophical assumptions that obstruct the acceptance of models depicting emergent realization offering analyses of these barriers and demonstrating ways to overcome them Rooted in the framework of process metaphysics this book models metaphysically genuine emergence paving the way for a comprehensive model of multifarious normative emergences These normative emergences include phenomena such as function dysfunction representational truth and falsity rational irrational ethical unethical and others that shape our mental and social landscapes The discussion extends to the macro evolutionary culmination of mental processes in a model of reflective consciousness The book then extends its exploration to the foundational role of mental processes in the emergence of social realities and persons with language acting as a core element in these emergences Addressing evolutionary aspects brain processes developmental processes moral normativities and self consistency considerations The Whole Person presents a holistic integration of decades of constructive work Endorsements This ambitious yet unpretentious carefully constructed and argued book is a must read for anyone with serious interest in the nature of persons and the psychology of personhood Mark Bickhard s The Whole Person is a sustained and convincing narrative about our individual and collective evolution and emergence as the unique beings that we are Of particular interest is his account of the emergence of persons as homo socius Here Professor Bickhard captures key but often overlooked historical sociocultural and socio developmental dynamics and processes that make us who we are a species constantly interacting with each other and the world in a never ending process of mutual co constitution By theorizing a process metaphysics replete with emergent normativity that does not clash with a naturalistic ontological psychology Bickhard takes a giant step toward seeing ourselves as we are and as we might become Jack Martin Professor Emeritus Simon Fraser University A typical psychological theory offers narrow generalizations about data sets obtained by semi proprietary empirical methods The basic empirical research on which such theories have depended is in crisis tremendous effort has gone into ill motivated studies applying statistics inappropriately to inadequate samples too often generating irreproducible results The kind of theory that psychology needs is broad and deep pays no respect to boundaries between specialties makes falsifiable predictions and answers to arguments in principle The Whole Person presents just such a theory psychologists whether their aim is to extend it and support it or to challenge it and refute it will benefit from studying it closely Robert L Campbell Professor Emeritus Psychology Clemson University
