

5 Simple Steps For Decision Making

Identify that you have to make a decision.

When a situation arises and you have to make a decision, it is important to pause and identify that you have to decide about something.

Think about the different choices that you have.

There are always many choices that you can make in any given situation. Were you given choices or is it up to you to come up with the choices and then decide?

Create a Pro and Con List.

Before making a decision, create a quick T-chart with one side labeled "pros" and one side labeled "cons". The pros represent the ideas in favor of something and the cons represent the ideas against doing something.

Try it out!

After you make your decision, put your decision into action.

Reflect!

Think about how your decision worked out. How does it effect you and others? Are you happy with your decision, or are you going to change your mind.

information overload and an essential guide to making smart confident decisions in the face of uncertainty Good Decision Bad Decision Anil K. Choudhary, 2013-02 Decision making appears to be a simple activity but the process leading to a decision is quite complex Unique aspect of decision making is that it is always done in advance but people weigh it in hindsight Therefore predicting a decision to be right or wrong at the time of decision making is always as good a guess as is the decision itself What is required at this stage is to understand the factors that may be impacting the decision maker and then accept or reject the decision being taken then and there On the contrary people tend to judge a decision as good or bad after the outcome is known which in author's view is not fair to the decision maker Success of a decision is not in it being good or bad right or wrong but being accepted when it is taken and not after knowing the outcome Author believes that acceptance of a decision is of far greater significance than the decision itself as unless accepted a decision has no relevance People not only accept or reject decision made by others but also by self If you thought accepting other's decision is more difficult then think again you would be surprised that many times accepting own decision is far more difficult Actually when others make a decision we can debate it criticize it pass on judgment but in almost all cases we forget it after sometime However when we make a decision we consciously or unconsciously keep deliberating and judging it for a long time Accepting or rejecting our own decision impacts our behaviour more than when we accept or reject decision made by others and this influences our future actions towards every new situation An important aspect in the process is segregating decision maker and decision acceptor The acceptor of the decision has to have faith in the decision maker and be aware of the factors that the decision maker has taken into consideration while arriving at the decision When others are taking decision this is much easier but when one takes decision where he is also a significantly impacted stakeholder of the decision this becomes really difficult In fact people tend to swing between the role of a decision maker and decision acceptor throughout the process As a decision maker you should only worry about coming out with the most appropriate decision to meet the expected outcome using your knowledge available information and other such factors As a decision acceptor you should be focused on knowing the decision maker and various factors that he has used to arrive at the decision If you are convinced with that you should accept the decision without really worrying about the outcome This book is an attempt to bring in awareness about some key factors that influences decision making so that the stakeholders become better acceptors of a decision while it is being taken irrespective of the outcome Let us always remember Decision is just a decision at the time it is made it is neither good nor bad Leadership William Russell White, 1951 The American Decisions, 1886
