Making Enrollment Management Work

Rebecca R. Dixon, 1995-12-06 The term enrollment management has been around for almost twenty five years It arose from the recognition that enrollment declines that began in the mid 1970s would not be arrested by better or more recruitment Rather college and universities would need to integrate a number of activities and programs and in the process probably redefine their purposes It became clear that an admission office even one that acts in concert with the financial aid office should not be solely responsible for maintaining adequate enrollment Succinctly stated enrollment management is finding enrolling and retaining enough of the kinds of students an institution wants Although offices of outreach admission and financial aid may be outside their immediate jurisdictions student affairs professionals have much to do with managing enrollments This volume examines several of the most important areas of enrollment management for the benefit of student service administrators This is the 71st issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Student Services
