Sundaram,Sarbuland Khan,2007 Trade liberalization may well have worsened unemployment as well as working conditions besides undermining existing productive capacities and reducing the policy space for developing better and competitive new economic capacities Meanwhile financial liberalization does not seem to have contributed to economic growth while exacerbating economic volatility instability and crises This publication advances the analytical debate in elaborating relevant economic and social policies to achieve more sustainable and equitable development in our times The Asian Economic Review ,2006 Cajanus ,2005 The Asia-Pacific Human Development Report ,2006 FAO Fisheries Technical Paper ,2005 Asia and Pacific Bibliography ,2003 Journal of Peace Studies ,2007 African Business ,2006

Ecosystems and Human Well-Being Kanchan Ratna Chopra,2005-12-14 With the knowledge of possible outcomes what kind of actions should we take The Millennium Ecosystem Assessment scored 74 response options for dealing with declines in ecosystem services and biodiversity and managing drivers such as climate change and nutrient loading This third volume in the MA series analyzes the track record of past policies and the potential of new ones The challenge of reversing the degradation of ecosystems while meeting increasing demands for their services can be met only with significant policy and institutional changes. However, a difficult set of obstacles stand in the way. Policy makers must keep in mind that there are both trade offs and synergies between human well being, ecosystems, and ecosystem services, and that decisions regarding these tradeoffs are difficult and often contentious. The Responses volume ultimately establishes which policy options have the greatest chance to overcome the obstacles and generate positive outcomes. It will serve as an invaluable guide to the creation of stronger policy frameworks for the future. Choice, 2007-03 Conférence Internationale Du Travail, 2004

Neoliberalism, Globalization, and Inequalities Vicente Navarro, 2007. Since U.S. President Reagan and U.K. Prime Minister Thatcher, a major ideology under the name of economic science has been expanded worldwide that claims that the best policies to stimulate human development are those that reduce the role of the state in economic and social lives: privatizing public services and public enterprises, deregulating the mobility of capital and labor, eliminating protectionism, and reducing public social protection. This ideology, called neoliberalism, has guided the globalization of economic activity and become the conventional wisdom in international agencies and institutions such as the IMF, World Bank, World Trade Organization, and the technical agencies of the United Nations, including the WHO. Reproduced in the Washington Consensus in the United States and the Brussels Consensus in the European Union, this ideology has guided policies widely accepted as the only ones possible and advisable. This book assembles a series of articles that challenge that ideology. Written by well-known scholars, these articles question each of the tenets of neoliberal doctrine, showing how the policies guided by this ideology have adversely affected human development in the countries where they have been implemented. Development and the Rule of Law in the WTO Intan Murnira Ramli, 2008. International economic law has been evolving toward an unprecedented degree of institutionalism and supranational legal authority, expressed through the availability of legalistic and more coercive mechanisms to develop international legal obligations enforceable upon states. This book will explore the transparency of the Dispute Settlement Mechanism (DSM) within the World Trade Organization (WTO), the level of participation of the WTO members, especially those of the developing and the least developed countries, and the attitude of the DSM in relation to the issue of development. Symposium, 2006. International Bibliography of Book Reviews of Scholarly Literature Chiefly in the Fields of Arts and Humanities and the Social Sciences, 2003. Internationale Bibliographie der Rezensionen wissenschaftlicher Literatur, 2003.
