Making Of The Museum Of Scotland:

The Making of the Museum of Scotland Charles McKean, 2000 Alongside visuals and photography Charles McKean here tells the architectural political logistical and emotional story of the new Museum of Scotland Scotland's History in the Making National Museums of Scotland, 1992 Summary notes on the Museum of Scotland building, public facilities and exhibition areas, 1996 Museum Builders II Laura Hourston, Laura Hourston Hanks, 2004-03-05 The popularity of the museum has dramatically increased in recent years and many modern examples have been built around the world This book catalogues these developments and beautifully presents an exciting selection of the most inspiring examples of contemporary museums around the world The book that first launched the successful Builders series was Museum Builders in 1994 and since this time there has been an explosion in museum building by some of the world's most famous architects Instead of trying to update the first edition Wiley Academy has produced a completely new and updated volume Following a historical and contemporary assessment of the role of the museum the author presents in great photographic detail the most famous examples of modern museums around the world Includes work by Frank Gehry Rem Koolhaas Daniel Libeskind Zaha Hadid Jean Nouvel and others Disability Studies and the Classical Body Ellen Adams, 2021-05-13 By triangulating the Greco Roman world classical reception and disability studies this book presents a range of approaches that reassess and reimagine traditional themes from the narrative voice to sensory studies It argues that disability and disabled people are the forgotten other of not just Classics but also the Humanities more widely Beyond the moral merits of rectifying this neglect this book also provides a series of approaches and case studies that demonstrate the intellectual value of engaging with disability studies as classicists and exploring the classical legacy in the medical humanities The book is presented in four parts Communicating and controlling impairment illness and pain Using creating and showcasing disability supports and services Real bodies and retrieving senses disability in the ritual record and Classical reception as the gateway between Classics and disability studies Chapters by scholars from different academic backgrounds are carefully paired in these sections in order to draw out further contrasts and nuances and produce a sum that is more than the parts The volume also explores how the ancient world and its reception have influenced medical and disability literature and how engagements with disabled people might lead to reinterpretations of familiar case studies such as the Parthenon This book is primarily intended for classicists interested in disabled people in the Greco Roman past and in how modern disability studies may offer insights into and reinterpretations of historic case studies It will also be of interest to those working in medical humanities sensory studies and museum studies and those exploring the wider tension between representation and reality in ancient contexts As such it will appeal to people in the wider Humanities who notwithstanding any interest in how disabled people are represented in literature art and cinema have had less engagement with disability studies and the lived experience of people with impairments FREE CHAPTER AVAILABLE Please go to <https://bit.ly/3pzp07n> to access the Introduction which we have

Making a Mark Andrew Meirion Jones, Marta Díaz-Guardamino, 2019-03-31 The visual imagery of Neolithic Britain and Ireland is spectacular While the imagery of passage tombs such as Knowth and Newgrange are well known the rich imagery on decorated portable artefacts is less well understood How does the visual imagery found on decorated portable artefacts compare with other Neolithic imagery such as passage tomb art and rock art How do decorated portable artefacts relate chronologically to other examples of Neolithic imagery Using cutting edge digital imaging techniques the Making a Mark project examined Neolithic decorated portable artefacts of chalk stone bone antler and wood from three key regions southern England and East Anglia the Irish Sea region Wales the Isle of Man and eastern Ireland and Northeast Scotland and Orkney Digital analysis revealed for the first time the prevalence of practices of erasure and reworking amongst a host of decorated portable artefacts changing our understanding of these enigmatic artefacts Rather than mark making being a peripheral activity we can now appreciate the central importance of mark making to the formation of Neolithic communities across Britain and Ireland The volume visually documents and discusses the contexts of the decorated portable artefacts from each region discusses the significance and chronology of practices of erasure and reworking and compares these practices with those found in other Neolithic contexts such as passage tomb art rock art and pottery decoration A contribution from Antonia Thomas also discusses the settlement art and mortuary art of Orkney while Ian Dawson and Louisa Minkin contribute with a discussion of the collaborative fine art practices established during the project
