Life and Mind José Manuel Viejo,Mariano Sanjuán,2023-06-12 This volume provides a broad overview of some cutting edge philosophical topics of growing interest at the juncture between cognitive science and biology The main goal is not to integrate the variety of approaches into a single account but rather to offer diverse perspectives on a collection of selected biological issues of particular philosophical relevance reflecting the plurality of current research in these areas. Four conceptual vectors give this volume its coherence: Animal and human cognition; With respect to animal cognition this volume focuses on self awareness and methodological flaws in the science of animal consciousness; Regarding human cognition the authors of this volume address various aspects of so called 4E cognition; Genetics: The role of genes in the development of mind and life has always been philosophically controversial. In this volume the authors address the possibility of considering post genomic genes as natural kinds and the proper analysis of the concept of genotype; Teleology: This volume addresses issues of evolutionary causality and teleosemantics as well as questions relating to biological teleology and regulation; Evolution: Evolution exemplifies better than any other concept the convergence point between philosophy, biology and cognitive sciences. Among other things the volume deals with the origin of novelties in evolutionary processes from various viewpoints e.g. cultural evolution and developmental plasticity. Despite their disparity all these topics belong to a common naturalistic framework. By presenting them in a single volume the editors want to emphasize the need to always conduct philosophical research on mind and life with tangential domains in mind. This book is a valuable resource for students and researchers of philosophy with a special interest in life, cognition and evolution as well as for biologists and cognitive scientists.

The Intitutions of the Mind Inductively Investigated James McCosh, 1860 Mind, 1891 A quarterly review of philosophy Making Minds Professor Henry M. Wellman, 2014-10-09

Developmental psychologists coined the term theory of mind to describe how we understand our shifting mental states in daily life. Over the past twenty years researchers have provided rich provocative data showing that from an early age children develop a sophisticated and consistent theory of mind by attributing their desires, beliefs and emotions to themselves and to others. Remarkably infants barely a few months old are able to attend closely to other humans, two year olds can articulate the desires and feelings of others and comfort those in distress and three and four year olds can talk about thoughts abstractly and engage in lies and trickery. This book provides a deeper examination of how theory of mind develops. Building on his pioneering research in The Child's Theory of Mind 1990 Henry M Wellman reports on all that we have learned in the past twenty years with chapters on evolution and the brain bases of theory of mind and updated explanations of theory theory and later theoretical developments including how children conceive of extraordinary minds such as those belonging to superheroes or supernatural beings. Engaging and accessibly written Wellman's work will appeal especially to scholars and students working in psychology, philosophy, cultural studies and social cognition.
