with Everything F. Gerald Downing, Francis Gerald Downing, 2008 In the Graeco Roman world as in our own people spoke of the divine of religion cult piety and superstition But they did not share our sense of a disjunction between the religious and the secular or between theology and other fields of discourse In these fascinating excursions through the world of early Christian and contemporary non Christian authors Downing shows how reflective talk about the divine could readily flow into talk about any and every area of current human concern This was so in an eclectic Stoic such as Dio Chrysostom but also in a Platonist such as Plutarch It was true too of the Jewish Christian Paul most richly in Romans And it characterizes Christian theological reflection in the early Fathers Such philosophical theological reflections were expected to have cash value and be enacted in real life So for example Downing compares the life styles set forward by Jesus and Paul and other early Christians with those urged by other writers in their world He shows how Paul s discussions of divine Torah echo critical Graeco Roman debates over law and tradition and how early Christian talk about exorcism resonates with suggestions from Dio Among the other themes treated here are the nature of women and their part in public discourse the logic of ancient and modern historiography aesthetics in the biblical tradition and the quest for the historical Galilee of Jesus day Five of the thirteen chapters in this volume are published here for the first time Sociological Abstracts ,1985 Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1971 EUDISED European Educational Research Yearbook 1998/99 ,2000 Arts & Humanities Citation Index ,1997 Bulletin signalétique ,1990
