

A WEB DESIGN PRICING GUIDE

PRICING GUIDE

WHAT YOU CAN EXPECT

To pay

If you're seeking a designer for a website, it could cost between $5,000 to $10,000 to design, with the average at $6,760

FOR A BASIC WEBSITE FOR THE FIRST YEAR

These figures include all the design time and creative exercises. A more customized design may cost more.

WHERE PRICING STARTS

Pricing for a website can go by the hour or a flat fee.

The cost should not be confused with the cost to develop a website. Some designers do the development themselves, while others outsource this task.

Websites that require a high level of detailed development will increase the cost. You want to pay a fair price to ensure the job is done well.

WHY WEB DESIGNERS' RATES VARY SO MUCH?

Rates are based on skill level and job complexity; and typically range from $30 to $75 or more.

Freelance rates are higher than in-house, but remember that this doesn't include what would be spent on equipment, health insurance or other employee benefits.

SERVICES & EXTRAS

If your website needs frequent revision and updates you can expect more service charges over time.

The bulk of the expenses for a website occurs within the first year. After that, charges range from $500 to $2,000 annually for simple maintenance.
