Ray Bradbury Jonathan R. Eller, William F. Touponce, 2004 This is a textual bibliographical and cultural study of 60 years of Bradbury's fiction. The authors draw upon correspondence with his publishers, agents, and friends, as well as archival manuscripts, to examine the story of Bradbury's authorship over more than half a century. All About Love and Then Some Nicolette Schurk, 2014-12-30 When I wrote that particular poem Unhappiness I was at my height of misery, not knowing where to turn. Finally, after fifteen years of a hell-like marriage, I ran. I took my two children, my daughter aged thirteen and my son aged ten, and packed all our clothing and left. I stayed with a sister who lives in another state. I was on my own from then on. I finally had the courage to leave. My life was now revolving around my two children and self. We now had peace of mind and we survived very nicely. If anyone who reads this finds themselves in a marital predicament like mine, my advice is: take courage, be brave, and do what's best for you and your children. You will survive. Storytime in India Helen Priscilla Myers, Umesh Chandra Pandey, 2019-06-14 An American ethnomusicologist and her Indian collaborator recount their experiences researching Bhojpuri wedding songs in India. Stories are the backbone of ethnographic research. During fieldwork, subjects describe their lives through stories. Afterward, ethnographers come home from their journeys with stories of their own about their experiences in the field. Storytime in India is an exploration of the stories that come out of ethnographic fieldwork. Helen Priscilla Myers and Umesh Chandra Pandey examine the ways in which their research collecting Bhojpuri wedding songs became interwoven with the stories of their lives, their work together, and their shared experience. Reading The Eustace Diamonds by Anthony Trollope, moving through these intertwined stories, the reader learns about the complete Bhojpuri wedding tradition through songs sung by Gangajali and access to the original song recordings and their translations. In the interludes, Pandey reads and interprets The Eustace Diamonds, confronting the reader with the ever-present influence of colonialism both in India and in ethnographic fieldwork. Interwoven throughout are stories of the everyday, highlighting the ups and downs of the ethnographic experience. Storytime in India combines the style of the Victorian novel with the structure of traditional Indian village tales in which stories are told within stories This book questions how we can and should present ethnography as well as what we really learn in the field As Myers and Pandey ultimately conclude writers of scholarly books are storytellers themselves and scholarly books are a form of art just like the traditions they study
