The Drowned Muse Anne-Gaëlle Saliot, 2015 The Drowned Muse is a study of the extraordinary destiny in the history of European culture of an object which could seem at first glance quite ordinary in the history of European culture It tells the story of a mask the cast of a young girl's face entitled L Inconnue de la Seine the Unknown Woman of the Seine and its subsequent metamorphoses as a cultural figure Legend has it that the Inconnue drowned herself in Paris at the end of the nineteenth century The forensic scientist tending to her unidentified corpse at the Paris Morgue was supposedly so struck by her allure that he captured in plaster the contours of her face This unknown girl also called The Mona Lisa of Suicide has since become the object of an obsessive interest that started in the late 1890s reached its peak in the 1930s and continues to reverberate today Aby Warburg defines art history as a ghost story for grown ups This study is similarly a ghost story for grown ups narrating the aura of a cultural object that crosses temporal geographical and linguistic frontiers It views the Inconnue as a symptomatic expression of a modern world haunted by the earlier modernity of the nineteenth century It also investigates how the mask's metamorphoses reflect major shifts in the cultural history of the last two centuries approaching the Inconnue as an entry point to understand a phenomenon characteristic of 20th and 21st century modernity the translatability of media Doing so this study mobilizes discourses surrounding the Inconnue casting them as points of negotiation through which we may consider the modern age

Photography and Literature Eric Lambrechts, 1992

Man Ray, 1890-1976 Man Ray, 1994. Included here are Man Ray's portraits of Breton, Yves Tanguy, Jean Cocteau, Lee Miller, Salvador Dali, Joan Miro, and Gertrude Stein, now classic images that embody the idea of the creative persona.

Photography, History of an Art Jean-Luc Daval, 1982. Nearly half a century ago, Walter Benjamin wrote: "Subtle distinctions have been pointlessly made in the effort to decide whether or not photography is an art. What was not asked first of all is whether this very invention has not transformed the general character of art. Today it seems more necessary than ever to show the extent to which photography as a creative medium has indeed reshaped the conception and practice of art. That is what this book sets out to do."

Man Ray Arturo Schwarz, 1977. In this book, to which the artist actively contributed right up to his death, every aspect of Man Ray's constantly self-renewing life and work is studied and documented in depth. The author has used the interpretative tools of modern psychology and, in addition, has drawn insight from studies on alchemy, for as he points out, the artist and the alchemist unconsciously tap the same archaic sources.

The Dada Spirit Emmanuelle de L'Écotais, 2002. Dada. This onomatopoeia suggesting a child's babbling started one of the most important mutations in the history of art. But what is Dada? Born of the First World War, Dada is a movement bringing together both artists and writers. From Zurich in 1916 it spread rapidly to New York, Berlin, Hanover, Cologne, and finally to Paris where it died in 1924. Because of the diversity of its creations, the Dada movement is not an ism of the art world; there is no Dada style, although a single spirit does govern the works of this movement, which is at once anti-conformist, anti-bourgeois, and above all, anti-artistic.
