Computer Work Stations Herman R. Holtz,2012-12-06 Most of us do not realize that we are living in revolutionary times To a large degree we are in a time of massive economic and industrial change and perhaps history will one day record this era as the Second Industrial Revolution Certainly we have been made aware of the decline of smoke stack industries and of the rapid rise of what might be called the information industries in the United States and presumably in most of the western world Several best selling authors have assured us that we must change or perish and a great many industrialists appear to agree Ironically we have also been all but promised a return to a modern form of that very cottage industry economy that the first Industrial Revolution wiped out Some of our leading savants envision individuals working at home on desktop computers connected via hardwire telephone to an employer s large central computer Will this come to pass Perhaps the industrial economic indicators appear to point in that direction although there are the problems of numerous laws and regulations labor laws and OSHA laws to name only two areas and ignoring for the moment the reaction of our labor unions that would be most difficult to reconcile with such an arrangement In a sense it is the computer that has brought about this condition

Goldfield,1986-11-12 With the increasing importance of information both as a lifeline of organizational administration and decision making and as a product in its own right office automation systems have become a paramount management concern Choosing the appropriate system from the many types available and getting the most out it requires a degree of specialized knowledge that is seldom available to busy managers and executives This volume the first in a series of handbooks on office automation systems planning and implementation is designed for the planner who needs to know how to evaluate an organization's system requirements, develop an overall systems strategy, and choose and work with consultants and systems vendors.

Office Automation 2.0 Jon Toigo, 2016-03-03

Office Automation 2.0 is a short guide to office automation for managers and IT professionals whose organizations are charting their path into the post-PC era. It drills down into the enterprise automation strategies and tactics appropriate to post-PC technologies such as virtual desktop infrastructure, mobile clients, and cloud services. This book teaches that rollouts of the latest enterprise-class technologies cannot produce business value unless management ensures that the front office is trained to use them correctly and that end-user practices and IT processes are dynamically and efficiently coupled in the organizational culture. Based on his decades of consultancy to corporate clients on how to retool IT infrastructure to drive business value, Jon Toigo provides concise practical guidance for innovative managers who are seeking to make every automation investment dollar count toward the three key metrics of business value: cost containment, risk reduction, and improved productivity. Marshaling many real-world examples from his experience, Toigo shows how 21st-century automation solutions, if they are to succeed, must be designed and implemented to span all departments of your enterprise, tying IT process with front-office practice. Office Automation 2.0 teaches office managers, business strategists, and IT professionals how to design and implement office automation solutions that will most efficiently harness post-PC technologies such as virtual desktop infrastructure, mobile clients, and cloud services to their particular business needs and constraints. How to train up their front-office personnel to extract maximum productivity and optimal user experience from the new IT processes that bear on their respective jobs. How to transform their organization's culture so that IT and end users pull in tandem to drive business value.
