

Jewish Law, Hasidic Lore, and Hollywood Legend: The Cantor, the Mystic, and the Jurist

Levi Cooper*

Abstract

Cantor Yossele Rosenblatt was offered an opportunity that would make any performer swoon: a star role in the ground-breaking film The Jazz Singer (1927). Yet Rosenblatt refused this artistic opportunity of a lifetime. This paper contextualizes Rosenblatt's baffling decision, by exploring one possible relationship between the arts and law; in this case—the art of storytelling and the Jewish legal system. The study demonstrates where the two pursuits tread separate, unlinked paths to a common end. This vector is refracted through the lens of liturgical performances outside the religious synagogue service; specifically the propriety of cantorial concerts featuring prayers from the High Holy Days. This issue is addressed in legal writing and in storytelling, each modality using its own tools to tackle the trend. It is noted that legal systems without effective enforcement mechanisms—such as Jewish law in the late modern period—could use arts as compensatory media for achieving societal order. More significantly, however, arts and law are not umbilically connected; each cultural creation independently strives to fashion society.

Cantor Josef Rosenblatt (1882-1933)—“Yossele” as he was affectionately known—was offered a chance that would make any performer swoon: a role in the 1927 landmark film The Jazz Singer. Scholars have probed The Jazz Singer, though Yossele's participation has yet to be considered from the perspective of Jewish law and the tradition of storytelling in Jewish culture.¹ This paper refracts Yossele's participation through lenses of law, literature, music, and history. I will spotlight the intersections among different cultural

Reflections on Issues in Judaic Law and Lore Dr. Martin Sicker, 2023-02-22 The fundamental basis of Judaism as is well known is the Torah the teachings contained in the Pentateuch the five biblical books the composition of which is traditionally attributed to Moses These teachings may be grouped in two basic categories matters between man and man individually as well as societally and matters between man and God The basic guidelines that apply in matters between man and man are referred to as mishpatim or ordinances whereas those applying to matters between man and God are referred to as statutes The fundamental distinction between the two categories is that the ordinances are subject to human judgment whereas the statutes are not the divine reason for them a mystery about which people may speculate but cannot know for certain The present work is primarily concerned with four statutes that have direct and significant impact on the lives of those committed to compliance with them Since simply rejecting any of them is not an acceptable option over the millennia since their codification in the Torah efforts have been made to deal with them under conditions that are significantly different from those that prevailed at the beginning of their revelation Given that the statutes as set forth in the Torah cannot be tampered with issues have been raised regarding how they are to be applied in the contemporary Jewish world These reflections are not intended to propose answers to those issues but only to clarify their significance and their present treatment in the various schools of Judaic thought
