Reviving Main Street Jacques Dalibard, Heritage Canada, 1985 I-284 Construction from I-84 in East Hartford to I-291 in South Windsor, 1982 Main Street to Mainframes Harvey K. Flad, Clyde C. Griffen, 2010-03-25 The history of growth decline and revitalization in Poughkeepsie New York parallels that of many other small northeastern cities Main Street to Mainframes tells the story of Poughkeepsie's transformation over the past three centuries from an agricultural market town to a small city with a diversified economy centered on Main Street to an urban region dependent on the success of one corporation and how this transformation has affected the lives and landscape of its inhabitants As it adjusted to major changes in agriculture transportation and industry Poughkeepsie was also shaped by the forces and tensions of immigration and race The voices of immigrant and migrant newcomers from the Germans Irish and African Americans of the nineteenth century to the Italians Poles and Latinos of the twentieth enliven the narrative and offer personal perspectives on the social and demographic shifts that have taken place over the years The book also places Poughkeepsie in the context of the mid Hudson Valley's other cities Kingston Newburgh and Hudson as they competed from the colonial period onward Finally the book examines recent revitalization efforts based on tourism culture and the arts More than just a local history Main Street to Mainframes addresses important issues in urban and regional planning community development and sociology Like a palimpsest Poughkeepsie shows how past landscapes live on in the present and how over time popular perceptions both shape and reflect urban and rural realities Realignment and Party Revival Arthur Paulson, 2000-06-30 Are American political parties really in decay Have American voters really given up on the major parties Taking issue with widely accepted theories of dealignment and party decay Paulson argues that the most profound realignment in American history occurred in the 1960s and he presents an alternative theory of realignment and party revival In the 1964-1972 period factional struggles within the major American political parties were resolved with conservative Republicans and liberal Democrats emerging as the majority factions within their parties The result was a critical realignment in Presidential elections in which the decisive realignment involved the movement of white voters in the south toward the Republican coalition The impression of dealignment came from the fact that electoral change in Congressional elections moved at a much slower rate The south continued to vote Democratic for congress usually for incumbent conservative Democrats The result was an electoral environment which produced divided government Secular realignment in congressional elections produced the Republican majorities of 1994 Now the conservative Democrats who were the swing voters since the 1960s were voting Republican The result is that the coalitions for yet another realignment are in place at the turn of the twenty first century After three decades in which the swing voters were relatively conservative the new swing voter is a genuine centrist an independent who is ideologically moderate The coming realignment Paulson asserts will consummate the birth of a new ideologically polarized party system with a greater potential for party government which would be a fundamental change for American democracy A
