

Philosophy of staffing in Nursing

- Nurse administrators of a hospital nursing department might adopt the following philosophy. Nurse administrators believe that
 1. It is possible to match employee's knowledge and skills to patient care needs in a manner that optimizes job satisfaction and care quality.
 2. The technical and humanistic care needs of critically ill patients are complex that all aspects of that care should be provided by professional nurses.
 3. The health teaching and rehabilitation needs of chronically ill patients are so complex that direct care for chronically ill patients should be provided by professional and technical nurses.
