Matrix Metalloproteinases In The Central Nervous System:

Matrix Metalloproteinases In The Central Nervous System Katherine Conant, Paul E Gottschall, 2005-07-26 This book presents the reader with an understanding of the role played by matrix metalloproteinases MMPs in the normal and diseased central nervous system CNS These enzymes may be important to brain development and may also contribute to tissue destruction which is observed with inflammatory and degenerative conditions of the brain The book provides a background on the biology of MMPs and on the stimuli and conditions that are linked to an increase in their production and activity It describes the targets of MMPs which include matrix proteins such as collagen soluble cytokines and chemokines and cell surface receptors Studies implicating MMPs in neuronal process outgrowth and cell migration in CNS development are covered The book also touches on studies suggesting that in certain situations dysregulated MMP activity and or production may be critical to blood brain barrier breakdown and neuronal damage a Bacterial Infections of the Central Nervous System Karen L. Roos, Allan R. Tunkel, 2010-03-03 Bacterial Infections of the Central Nervous System aims to provide information useful to physicians taking care of patients with bacterial infections in the central nervous system CNS which can lead to morbidity and mortality The increased number of patients suffering from this infection has led to the development of vaccines and antibiotics Comprised of four chapters the book explains the general approach to patients with bacterial CNS infection It also discusses various CNS infection concepts and terms These include the characteristic neuroimaging appearance of specific bacterial infections the limitations of neuroimaging the cerebrospinal fluid analysis the pathogenesis and pathophysiology of bacterial CNS infections the developments of specific adjunctive strategies and the principles of antimicrobial therapy It also includes discussions on various diseases that target the CNS such as meningitis focal CNS infections neurological complications of endocarditis suppurative venous sinus thrombosis infections in the neurosurgical patient and CNS diseases caused by selected infectious agents and toxins This book will serve as a guide for clinical physicians who have patients suffering from bacterial CNS infection Matrix Metalloproteinases in the Equine Central Nervous System Cristina Sogaro Robinson, 2007 Abstract Many diseases of the central nervous system share common pathophysiological processes such as disruption of the blood brain barrier BBB remodeling of the extracellular matrix ECM inflammation and oxidative stress In the last two decades it has become evident that matrix metalloproteinases MMPs play an essential role in many of these processes Several studies have focused on the regulation and expression of these proteases in experimental models of neurologic diseases revealing that inhibition of MMPs in early stages of disease has the potential to reduce the extent of damage to nervous tissue and improve functional neurologic recovery Research is currently focusing on defining the role of MMP in specific neurologic conditions to determine whether MMP inhibitors would be appropriate in clinical settings Selective MMP inhibitors are currently used in research settings However commonly used drugs such as corticosteroids and tetracyclines are non selective MMPs inhibitors which are used in horses with neurologic disease These drugs may alter the outcome of said disease by modification of MMP activity This first part of this work a review of MMP role in central nervous system diseases has been made in attempt to translate some of the knowledge from human and laboratory species to the equine species and explore possible treatment options in horses affected by neurologic diseases In the second part we evaluated MMP 9 activity in the CSF of 40 horses affected by neurologic diseases On gelatin zymography all horses had low but present MMP 9 activity

Inhibition of Matrix Metalloproteinases Robert A. Greenwald, Stanley Zucker, Lorne M. Golub, 1999 This volume contains papers from a multidisciplinary conference convened to discuss mechanisms of action pharmacology models for drug development and recent positive clinical trial data relating to the inhibition of collagenases and related metalloproteinases matrix MMPs Excess metalloproteinase activity has been identified in many disease processes and finally products for the specific use as metalloproteinase inhibitors are about to be marketed In this book two novel themes are explored the arguments for and against broad spectrum versus specific MMP inhibitors and the potential usefulness of chairside diagnostic kits for clinical determination of excessive MMP activity
