Matthew As Story:

Matthew as Story Jack Dean Kingsbury, This work uses literary narrative criticism to explore the world of the evangelist Matthew The focus is on the plot of the gospel story with discussions of the storylines Jesus speeches and journey the disciples experiences and the contemporary community The book is a completely revised and enlarged version of the first edition Two chapters have been added one discussing the speeches of Jesus and one tracing the storline of the religious leaders Also chapter 5 on Jesus use of the Son of man has been substantially rewritten to explain more fully and more clearly the meaning and function of this self designation Throughout the book new topics and insights have been added and developed and the citations and bibliography have been updated Discipleship in the Ancient World and Matthew's Gospel, Second Edition Michael Wilkins, 2015-08-24 With a comprehensive sweep of the relevant literature including classical and Hellenistic sources the Septuagint and the New Testament the author defines disciple and related terms as they were used in the ancient world Pertinent Semitic words from the Hebrew Bible Rabbinic literature and Qumran documents provide additional background for the term A special emphasis is Matthew s use of mathetes and the role of Simon Peter as a model disciple The study first appeared in 1988 in the prestigious Novum Testamentum Supplements under the title The Concept of Disciple in Matthew s Gospel As Reflected in the Use of the Term Mathetes In this second edition the author includes a new chapter outlining advances in the field since the book was first published The Restoration of Messianic Hope Brian Main, 2025-06-25 The New Testament portrays the apostles as placing great emphasis on Jesus resurrection in their preaching and teaching This emphasis is often lacking however in contemporary preaching and teaching If Jesus resurrection is to regain the centrality it held in the apostolic age its significance must be understood In this study Brian Main attempts to understand the significance of Jesus resurrection in the Gospel of Matthew Since Jesus resurrection is the proper conclusion of the story in Matthew it is necessary to understand what the story is that it concludes By analyzing the characters settings plot and point of view in Matthew 1 1 4 11 as well as those in the resurrection narrative 28 1 20 Main and his readers come to grasp the expectations that Matthew s audience develops as that story unfolds As readers understand those expectations they will gain a better appreciation of what was at stake when Jesus experienced opposition and therefore of what was restored and guaranteed by his resurrection Matthew's Inclusive Story David B. Howell, 1990-01-01 Matthew has been described as an inclusive story in which the experiences of the evangelist s post Easter church are inscribed in the story of Jesus s earthly ministry This book explores the inclusive nature of the Gospel by means of reader response literary criticism Some recent redaction studies of Matthew are reviewed from the perspective of reader response criticism Then in an attempt to understand the interpretative moves readers make Matthew s story story teller and audience are examined Matthew's Story of Jesus Richard Alan Edwards, 1985 Richard A Edwards here tells Matthew s story of Jesus by using the insights of a contemporary literary critical method called narrative analysis or reader response criticism He treats the Gospel of Matthew as a distinct narrative a story rather than an essay in story form Special attention is given to the reader and to the way in which the narrator guides or influences the reader's understanding of the characters their relation to one another and their own development as participants in the plot This is a companion volume to Mark's Story of Jesus Luke's Story of Jesus and John's Story of Jesus Back cover

Matthew's Narrative Web Janice Capel Anderson, 1994-05-01 The Gospel of Matthew contains many repeated phrases and double stories Scholars have usually used this as evidence to support various source theories Taking a different approach this book uses narrative and reader response criticisms to explore the role verbal repetition plays in the rhetoric characterization and plot of the Gospel The importance of variation context and the temporal dimension of narrative is highlighted A concluding chapter treats two literary studies of repetition in modern narrative and the relation of narrative and reader response criticisms to aural reception of the Gospels in the first century

Preaching Matthew's Gospel Richard A. Jensen, 1998 Jensen's research and insights provide a stimulating resource on Matthew's Gospel Jensen provides Homiletical Directions at the end of each chapter that will help the preacher find a focus and locate themes for preaching the text Jensen points to the ways in which the biblical writers lock their stories together with other stories in order to give fuller meaning to their narratives He covers material that is not included in the assigned lectionary texts and discusses the inter-relatedness of Matthew's stories These narrative analogies imply that preaching on Matthew's Gospel may at times be a retelling of two or more Matthean stories This is the third installment in Jensen's series which also includes Preaching Mark's Gospel and Preaching Luke's Gospel Richard A Jensen is the Axel Jacob and Gerda Maria Swanson Carlson Professor of Homiletics at the Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago He is also Dean of the Doctor of Ministry in Preaching program of the Association of Chicago Theological Schools He is well known throughout the country as the preacher for eleven years on the radio program Lutheran Vespers sponsored by the ELCA Jensen has served as professor at Mekane Yesus Seminary in Addis Ababa Ethiopia Dana College in Blair Nebraska Wartburg Theological Seminary in Dubuque Iowa and Luther Seminary in St Paul Minnesota He is the author of nine books and numerous published articles

Parables as Poetic Fictions Charles W. Hedrick, 2005-11-01 Contending that Jesus narrative parables are more poetic than metaphoric Hedrick argues that parables should be heard solely on their own terms Hedrick's dissatisfaction with figurative and metaphorical approaches or those that argue for a particular meaning or a single interpretation diverges sharply from the modern consensus and breaks new ground in parable studies

Reading Matthew as the Climactic Fulfillment of the Hebrew Story Martin Spadaro, 2015-09-09 This book is a reading of Matthew's Gospel as though it were written to integrate with and conclude the existing body of Scriptures Matthew is read as though John was the last prophet of God and Israel's last chance for repentance and that Jesus was YHWH who had come to judge the Temple priesthood and covenant nation according to the terms of the covenant God made with Moses at Sinai Through this lens new interpretations are given to the infancy narrative the Sermon on the Mount the mission the parables and Jesus arrival in Jerusalem along with the events that followed By reading Matthew this way a greater appreciation can be gained for its necessary place in the canon and many of Matthew's well known conundrums can be meaningfully addressed As a Hebrew document Matthew understood the necessity to record the crimes against YHWH Jesus in Israel and Jerusalem as the ultimate cause for the termination of the ethnically and geographically bound covenant which could then be replaced by the cross cultural and international covenant that Christians now enjoy

Matthew's Narrative Portrait of Disciples Richard A. Edwards,1997-09-01 This is a study of eleven character shaping incidents in Matthew related to the disciples In introducing the study Richard Edwards points out that Matthew's story does not focus primarily on the disciples It is instead a story of the life of Jesus that moves from a beginning to its conclusion While the response or reaction to the person of Jesus by individuals or groups may not always be positive the narrator never portrays Jesus in a negative way Not so with the disciples who though not as prominent as Jesus in the narrative are nevertheless clearly the second most significant characters Their portrayal in the story however is distinctly different from that of Jesus At times they are presented in a positive way and at other times in a definitely negative way Why such a complex portrayal of the disciples How can we gain a better understanding of the disciples as characters in Matthew's narrative Richard Edwards answers these questions by applying a distinctive implied reader or text connoted reader methodological feature of the narrative approach to Matthew 4 18 22 8 18 27 13 51 52 14 22 33 16 5 23 17 1 13 19 23 20 28 26 14 25 26 30 58 27 3 10 28 16 20 He concludes that a disciple is not an ideal individual who meets Jesus expectations but someone who recognizes who Jesus is and will follow him in a limited fashion under most conditions Richard A Edwards is Associate Professor in the Department of Theology at Marquette University and the author of Matthew's Story of Jesus and Discipleship in the New Testament Christian Workers' Commentary on the Old and New Testaments James Martin Gray,1915 Arranged in sections with questions for use at family alters and in adult Bible classes Containing homiletic and expository suggestions for young preachers Luther League Review ,1918 The Homiletic Review ,1910 The Parting of the Roads Frederick John Foakes-Jackson,Jesus College (University of Cambridge),1912 The Institute Tie ,1913 The Christological Assimilation of the Apocalypse Paul O'Callaghan,2004 Biblical apocalyptic texts that make imminent predictions of the end of the world as we know it have fascinated Christians from the earliest times Understandably over the centuries such texts have been interpreted in a variety of different even opposing ways This is particularly so in twentieth century biblical exegesis Many authors would hold that apocalyptic texts far from truly predicting the end of time final resurrection universal judgement and perpetual separation of just and wicked are to be seen as merely existential or performative expressions of the sinner's radical dependence on a Sovereign Divinity Any kind of literal interpretation of apocalyptic predictions therefore would seem to involve insoluble problems of a scientific ethical and social kind that modern society cannot envisage In this extensive biblical study Prof O Callaghan considers in detail not only the eschatology present in apocalyptic works in general and the complex debate on New Testament eschatology that flourished throughout the last century He has also shown that the powerful apocalyptic message present in the New Testament is essentially an application and direct consequence of Jesus Christ's saving work among humans Principally on the basis of a narrative analysis of Matthew's Christology apocalyptic motifs abound in the first gospel he shows that New Testament apocalyptic as it stands while radical challenging and theologically stimulating is neither irrational nor ethically untenable And this for the simple reason that the Judge who will come at the end of time to save the just and condemn sinners is one and the same Jesus of Nazareth who has already offered the gift of salvation to the whole of humankind

The Open Court ,1907 god and my neighbor robert blatchford,1904 The Human Element in the Gospels George Salmon,1907 The Jesus Chronicles Tim F. LaHaye,2010 Portrays the story of how Levi the tax collector became Matthew the apostle of Jesus Christ and one of the great authors of the Gospels
