The Archaeology of Lapita Dispersal in Oceania Geoffrey Richard Clark,Atholl Anderson,Tarisi Vunidilo,2001 Papers from the Fourth Lapita Conference held in Canberra Lapita archaeology is of fundamental importance to understanding the Pacific since it unearths information about the first people to establish themselves beyond the Solomon Islands to as far east as Samoa around 3000 years ago Shells & Shellfish of the Pacific Northwest Rick M. Harbo,1997 This easy to follow full colour guide introduces the more than 250 species of mollusks found along the beaches and shallow waters of the Pacific Northwest Proceedings of The Academy of Natural Sciences (Vol. 150, 2000) ,2006 The Early Prehistory of Fiji Geoffrey Richard Clark,Atholl Anderson,2009-12-01 I enjoyed reading this volume It is rare to see such a comprehensive report on hard data published these days especially one so insightfully contextualised by the editors introductory and concluding chapters These scholars and the others involved in the work really know their stuff and it shows The editors connect the preoccupations of Pacific archaeologists with those of their colleagues working in other island regions and on big questions of colonisation migration interaction and patterns and processes of cultural change in hitherto uninhabited environments These sorts of outward looking big picture contextual studies are invaluable but all too often are missing from locally and regionally oriented writing very much to its detriment In sum the work strongly advances our understanding of the early prehistory of Fiji through its well integrated combination of original research and the reinterpretation of existing knowledge in the context of wider theoretical and historical concerns In doing so The Early Prehistory of Fiji makes a truly substantial contribution to Pacific and archaeological scholarship Professor Ian Lilley The University of Queensland The Proceedings of the Scientific Meetings of the Zoological Society of London Zoological Society of London,1872
